Armies OK with disengagement at Gogra point

Political clearance awaited from China to defuse tension there, create a buffer zone

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

AT the recent meeting of Corps Commanders of India and China, both sides agreed to disengage from the Gogra (Patrolling Point 17A) stand-off point along the Line of Actual Control in Ladakh. A political decision by both countries is awaited. A senior official said, "Both the Corp Commanders agreed to disengage from Gogra but the final go ahead has to come from the political hierarchies of both the governments."

There is a platoon-level strength (35 soldiers) stationed in stand-off mode on both sides at Gogra. Once the go ahead comes, soldiers will retreat to a designated position on the ground and will leave a buffer zone as was done in Pangong Tso. In their first step towards defusing tension, India and China had in February had pulled back troops and heavy equipment, including tanks, artillery guns and mechanised vehicles, to create buffer zones at North and South banks of the Pangong Tso.

Also, troops were disengaged from Galwan, which was the site of deadly skirmishes leading to the death of soldiers from both sides.

As reported earlier by this newspaper, officials on the ground had indicated that disengagement could take place both at Gogra and Hotspring (Patrolling Point 15), but a decision was arrived at on one of the two during the last meeting. The Chinese had rushed in soldiers after clashes at Finger 4 in May 2020 and the stand-off deployment was done at both banks of Pangong Tso, Hotspring, Gogra and Galwan. Besides, there was stand-off at Depsang and Demchok.

There are mirror deployments from both sides, with the Chinese moving in four divisions along the Eastern Ladakh. Similarly, the Indian Army has stationed four divisions to counter any movement and also to handle the stand-off deployment.

Other than talks at various levels, the hotline has been used extensively, with up to five calls a day. "Hotline talks between May 2020 and till July have happened 1,450 times," said an official. There have been 12 meetings so far between the Corps Commanders, 10 between division commanders and 55 at the delegation level (sector commanders or Brigadier level) to address the matter.

HOW BUFFER ZONES WORKED AT PANGONG

At Pangong Tso, Chinese troops at North Bank had moved back north of Finger 8 and Indian soldiers retreated close to Finger 3. The area in between became a buffer zone with a temporary moratorium on patrolling from both sides. A similar accord is expected at Gogra

We have to prepare for 2023 elections, but we also have to ensure good, pro-people administration. For that, we need experience as well as new vigour

Basavaraj Bommai, Chief Minister

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION ON DCMs, ADMITS BOMMAI

ANUSHA RAVI @ Bengaluru

IF the BJP Central leadership gives him the green signal, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai could have a council of ministers before nightfall on Wednesday.

It has been a week since Bommai took oath as chief minister. Of the seven days, he has spent five in New Delhi discussing cabinet expansion.

On Tuesday night, Bommai said he will return to Bengaluru on Wednesday morning and will schedule a swearing-in ceremony for his cabinet by evening if the central leadership approves the final list of ministers. Perhaps for the first time, Bommai acknowledged that there were differences of opinion on deputy chief ministers. Party sources suggested that while Bommai has strongly advocated a 'no DCM' policy, the BJP high command is considering alternatives.

"I have decided to schedule the swearing-in ceremony either tomorrow afternoon or evening. All aspects like regional representation, social justice and inclusion of newcomers have been discussed. Party president JP Nadda has taken all the information and sought some clarifications which I have provided. A final word will be conveyed to me tomorrow (Wednesday) morning and I will send the list to Raj Bhavan. If the list is finalised early tomorrow then we will hold a swearing-in ceremony tomorrow. There is little else to discuss," Bommai told reporters after a dinner meeting at Union Minister Pralhad Joshi's residence.

"It is true that there is a difference of opinion on deputy chief ministers. A decision is also pending on how many people should be inducted. Both issues will be addressed by tomorrow. I have left it to the senior leadership to decide," Bommai said.

B'luru records 99.96%, stands 2nd in CBSE Class 10 results

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

BENGALURU recorded a pass percentage of 99.96 in the CBSE 10th results on Tuesday. The region stood second in the country after Thiruvananthapuram -- which notched up 99.99 per cent.

The results were announced for 20,97,128 candidates who wrote the exam from 21,467 schools across the country. Of these, 2,00,962 students scored between 90 and 95 percent, while the results of 16,639 are still being processed.

Teachers and parents said the new system of grading, with the final exam being cancelled due to the pandemic, proved disadvantageous to some children. The students were assessed out of 80 marks based on different tests and exams conducted by the school, and 20 marks from internal assessment. "In our school, the individual average has come down from around 93 per cent to 88. Students on the lower academic rung have benefitted from the new system, while the toppers have lost out," said M Srinivasan, founder and chairman of GEAR Foundation.

As unit tests, half-yearly and preparatory exams were taken into account, students who did consistently well benefitted, parents said. "During unit tests, students are still getting into the groove and do not perform well. They take the half-yearly exam more seriously. As there is strict correction for preparatory exams, their marks are generally low," said a parent.

Rahul steps up to fill Oppn vacuum

RICHA SHARMA @New Delhi

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi addressing a breakfast meeting of MPs from 15 Opposition parties, at the Constitution Club in New Delhi on Tuesday | PTI

FORMER Congress chief Rahul Gandhi on Tuesday hosted a breakfast meeting for Opposition MPs to possibly stake his claim for their leadership at a later date. By doing so, he tried to end a self-created leadership vacuum, which leaders like West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee and NCP boss Sharad Pawar had sought to fill in recent weeks.

Rahul had never in the past actively engaged with Opposition leaders inside or outside Parliament. Even within the party, many veteran Congress leaders have been critical of him for not meeting or listening to them on key issues.

Until now, he was rarely part of joint meetings of Opposition leaders even on vital issues like the reading down of Article 370, farm legislation or strategy meetings during Parliament session. In his absence, they were attended by the then Leader of Opposition in the Rajya Sabha Ghulam Nabi Azad and his deputy Anand Sharma.

"He is now regularly interacting with MPs from other like-minded parties and attending joint protests by the Opposition in Parliament on issues concerning the people," said a senior Congress MP.

This change in approach is seen as welcome step by many party leaders. They wonder if calls for a united Opposition to take on the Modi government by Mamata and Pawar prodded Rahul to step up the ladder to prevent encroachment in Opposition leadership. "He has held a few meetings with strategist Prashant Kishor and there are discussions to have him (Kishor) in the party or taking his services to overhaul the Congress. This change (in Rahul) could be part of the revamp or due to Mamata and Pawar taking the lead in uniting the Opposition," said another party leader.

TPR goes below 2%, but situation in 8 states grim

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

INDIA's test positivity rate has fallen below 2% for the first time in three months, but eight states still report high infection rates as shown by the R factor (reproduction rate).

R factor denotes the number of people getting infected by one person. If the R factor value is above 1, it means one person can spread the infection to more than one person which suggests that the infection is spreading.

For India, the highest R values are in Himachal Pradesh, Jammu and Kashmir, Lakshadweep, Tamil Nadu, Mizoram, and Karnataka where this figure is 1.2 or higher.

"We are concerned that some states have the R factor in the wrong direction. It is above 1 and rising, it is truly a cause of concern. The virus wishes to expand. We must curb it," said V K Paul, member (Niti Aayog) and head of the national Covid19 task force.

Authorities in the press briefing by the Union health ministry also shared that there are 44 districts in the country where the Covid-19 case positivity rate is over 10%. These districts are in Kerala, Manipur, Mizoram and Nagaland, among others.

According to Chennai-based Institute of Mathematical Sciences, R value of SARS-CoV-2 in India crossed 1 on July 27. The R value needs to be brought down to less than 1 for the virus to eventually stop spreading because it cannot infect enough people to sustain the outbreak.

Covid indicators bad for K'taka as active cases jump

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluu

THE test positivity rate in Karnataka is falling, active cases are rising and the recovery rate is sliding, even as the mortality rate has remained static for the last few days, all indicating a worsening Covid situation in the State.

Karnataka's active cases (number of patients currently under treatment) rose from 22,569 on July 28 to 24,280 on Tuesday. The recovery rate, which had seen a high of 98.06 per cent while the first wave was on the wane, has not been able to match that high while managing 97.96 per cent on July 28. Since then, it has been consistently on the decline, reaching 97.90 per cent on Tuesday. Over the last few days, the number of daily cases has been exceeding the discharges, pushing the recovery rate down and increasing the number of active cases.

Lovlina's Olympic glory gets her village a road

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

PODIUM TO BETTER LIFE

TAKING note of the lack of basic infrastructure in Olympic medallist Lovlina Borgohain's village Baro Mukhia, first reported by TNIE, the Assam government has started building a motorable road to her village.

The 3.5-km road will connect Barpathar town in Upper Assam's Golaghat district with the ace boxer's village that has a population of around 2,000. The work started two days ago.

Prior to her Olympics glory, the locals had highlighted the lack of infrastructure in the village. They were optimistic Baro Mukhia will undergo a transformation like sprinter Hima Das's Kandhulimari village in Nagaon district if Lovlina wins a medal. The medal is now assured, thanks to her entry into the semifinal.

The area falls under Sarupathar Assembly, which has often been represented by the Congress.

Local MLA Biswajit Phukan of the BJP said the kutcha road was being made concrete. A bumpy ride to the village made him decide on building the road.

Work is on in full swing to build a 3.5-km motorable road from Barpathar town in Upper Assam's Golaghat district to Lovlina's village Baro Mukhia

"I was travelling to Lovlina's house the other day after she had stormed into the semis. The condition of the road was very bad after overnight downpour. So, I took a decision to build it and complete it before Lovlina's return," Phukan told TNIE.

The state's Public Works Department is executing the road. "We are making it motorable. If money is not sanctioned by the government, I will spend from my pocket," Phukan added.

The MLA admitted the region has a lot of problems in terms of infrastructure.

Lovlina's father Tiken Borgohain said the villagers were happy that the boxer's glory got them a road. "People are very happy to see a concrete road coming up on a kutcha road. I thank the state government and the MLA," he said.

SC raps BDA for site registration in Karanth layout

Seeks immediate transfer of sub-registrar; any sale after Aug 3, 2018, stands void

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

THE Supreme Court came down heavily on Karnataka for permitting registration of sites in Dr Shivaram Karanth Layout, beyond the cut-off date of August 3, 2018. Calling for immediate transfer of the sub-registrar carrying out these registrations, it has sought a status report from the Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) on details of the registered sites by August 13.

Admonishing the Advocate-General orally during the hearing of a case between BDA and State of Karnataka and others on July 29, the bench comprising Justice S Abdul Nazeer and Justice Sanjeev Khanna said, "We were told sites in this layout are registered in favour of third parties. Once the final notification is issued, any sale made thereafter becomes a void document. Despite that, BDA had been writing to the sub-registrar or whoever (for registration)."

The court also directed the government to despatch an officer to the particular sub-registrar and find out how many sites were registered after the cut-off date. "We are told that even now, registration is going on. If that is so, you must immediately shift the sub-registrar. This is very dangerous," the court said.

The bench directed that all site registrations be stopped with immediate effect.

'Pay compensation immediately'

The SC also urged BDA to pay cash compensation immediately, while taking possession of a site. "If you are acquiring site on a 60:40 basis, issue a certificate immediately as to how much developed land they are entitled to," the court directed the BDA, and added that even if someone is handing over their site voluntarily, the individual must be given a site under the incentive scheme.

Asked about the action initiated in light of the court directive on site registration, BDA Commissioner Rajesh Gowda said his team had already written to the Inspector General of Registration (IGR) and Commissioner of Stamps over the issue. IGR Mohan Raj told TNIE that the communication received from BDA had been intimated to the district registrar and a report on the registered sites would be readied within a day or two.

Remove unauthorised cables from footpaths: HC to BBMP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court said on Tuesday that the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) should continue removing unauthorised cables over footpaths and streets as they pose a threat to citizens.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice NS Sanjay Gowda passed the order after hearing a PIL filed by city advocate NP Amrutesh.

The petitioner has filed an application to implead internet service providers and Association of Cable Operators. The court noted that the BBMP is issuing public notice asking internet service providers and cable operators to remove dangling wires within a month. Meanwhile, the counsel of BBMP orally submitted that it is difficult to remove internet cables at this time as students are attending online classes.

The petitioner had contended that it is the obligation of the BBMP to set criminal law in motion under the Cable Television Networks (Regulation) Act, 1995, against violators..

Experts concerned over fortification of food items

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

OVER 170 individuals and organisations along with the Alliance for Sustainable and Holistic Agriculture (ASHA Kisan Swaraj) have written to the Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI), urging it to scrap its plans to make synthetic/chemical fortification of foods mandatory in India.

They cited detrimental and irreversible health and socio-economic impacts such as market shifts in favour of large corporations, loss of livelihoods for small and informal players, monocultures in diets and reliance on packaged foods and more.

Earlier this year, the FSSAI issued draft regulations on mandatory fortification of edible oil and milk with vitamin A and D. It also announced intentions to make rice fortification mandatory starting 2024.

Nutritionists pointed out that adding one or two synthetic chemical vitamins and minerals will not solve the larger problem, and in undernourished populations, can lead to toxicity, including gut inflammation.

"Evidence supporting fortification is inconclusive and certainly not adequate before major national policies are rolled out," said Dr Veena Shatrugna, former Deputy Director of National Institute of Nutrition.

DECISION ON REIMPOSING WEEKEND CURFEW SOON

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A BBMP marshal penalises a woman for not wearing mask on a crowded Bengaluru road on Tuesday | VINOD KUMAR T

WITH Covid cases on the rise, the State government is working on taking stringent steps and is likely to decide on imposing weekend curfew, BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta said on Tuesday.

He told the media, "We have not sent any proposal to the government. Discussions are being held with Technical Advisory Committee members and experts. The government has not taken any decision yet on introducing more relaxations in the coming days. If the present restrictions are strictly adhered to, cases can be controlled. However, the government will take the final decision."

Referring to those coming into Bengaluru from Kerala and Maharashtra, he said that those whose test reports are yet to come, will have to stay in institutional quarantine at their own cost. "Those from other states will be put in institutional quarantine if they have no facilities at home, and they will have to bear the cost," he added.

The BBMP is in talks with hotels for this, and the list will be made public soon. Talks are also on with apartment associations, where a surge in cases is being reported. Gupta said they have been directed to keep a close watch on those showing symptoms and coming from other states. The worry now is the new variants, he said.

"Talks are also being held with hospitals to check on bed status and increase the number. Containment zones are being streamlined and closely monitored. Nearly 350 positive cases are reported on a daily basis, 20-25 of them being admitted to hospital in government quota," Gupta said. "Marshals, police and healthcare workers have been directed to intensify testing at railway, bus and auto stands. Random testing will also be done at busy areas."

Directive to hotels

A restaurant was shut down, and the owner penalised for not following Covid norms. Later in the day, Gaurav Gupta held a meeting with members of Bruhat Bengaluru Hotels Association, directing them to ensure the virus does not spread. "Every hotel must join hands with BBMP in controlling the spread. You must ensure that all protocols are followed," he said.

Awareness must be raised among hotel chefs, servers, staff and customers, regarding Covid-appropriate behaviour. Hotel staff must undergo Covid tests regularly.

Night curfew is in place in Bengaluru from 10pm to 5am. However, since some hotels continue to function post 10pm, citizens are also out on the roads. A meeting was conducted with the police department to make ensure that night curfew is followed by all, he said.

BWSSB to levy Rs 10K fine for illegal connections

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

BANGALORE Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) has so far found 1,602 illegal connections in the city and said that heavy penalties will be levied on households indulging in this kind of water theft.

S V Venkatesh, Chief Engineer, Maintenance (East), BWSSB, told The New Indian Express, "Out of 1.7 lakh water connections inspected in Bengaluru East during the drive which began mid-June, we have discovered 978 bypass connections. In Bengaluru West, 1 lakh connections were checked and 624 such connections were found."

The city has a total of 1,07,352 Cauvery water connections. "We have covered 2.7 lakh connections as on date. We plan to check every connection within the next two months," he added.

The proposed fine amount of Rs 10,000 was approved last month. "It will reflect in the water bill of those households whose bypass connection were disconnected recently," he added. "In addition to it, these families will also be levied six times the water bill of their regular water connection which will be reflected in the bill a month later," Venkatesh said.

"A special squad has been constituted to carry out these drives. The BWSSB has also filed a complaint against 1,000-plus connections to the Bangalore Metropolitan Task Force (BMTF)," said BWSSB Chairman N Jayaram.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

04th August: Here's my next report from cutting-edge science. Every atom in your body was once inside a star. Another part of that atom is currently somewhere else, probably on another planet. Yet, when an atom is split, the two parts of it remain in such a close relationship that, when one part is touched, the other reciprocates. And this means that when you think, something on another planet responds! It doesn't get any weirder than that!

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You'll have to think on your feet. Most of you have as yet not been faced with a major decision concerning a range of personal matters, but all the indications are that you will be very soon. If I were you, I'd start talking to the people who matter most!

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
If other people are trying to rush you, then the stars say that you can take it as slowly as you like! You may need to do a little more spadework before springing into action. Perhaps you are still a little unclear as to where somebody close stands on one particular subject, and you could remain uncertain until next week.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
As the Sun and Mars separate from one close relationship, and get ready for another, personal matters should become rather less fiery. You may now have to accept that an employer or authority figure could not have been prevented from doing what they did.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
No matter how hard you try to unravel complex emotional or practical issues, the answers do not seem to be any closer. It's probably best to be charitable and maintain an ethical outlook. It's natural for you to put others first, so you shouldn't encounter any further problems.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)
You would be wise to wait another few months before claiming victory. You will remain ahead in the race, but there are as yet undreamt-of hurdles to jump, so always remain alert to unexpected developments. It's all a matter of welcoming surprises rather than being put off by them.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You may not be able to dodge the role of martyr, but at least you can avoid being exploited by people who quite honestly don't need your help. It's all a question of knowing when to say 'no'. I'm sure that others will eventually come to respect your decisions.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
A clash of wills or personalities seems likely between now and this time next week. If you're tired of other people being too hysterical, try and relax. In future they'll be too pedantic and fussy instead! But, then, perhaps you need to choose different friends!

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Finances are a contentious issue, but it seems to be joint connections which hold the greatest problems. My advice is to continue to avoid risks and look unkindly on promises of instant riches. If you go for short-term gains, you might be caught out.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Lively conditions continue, and you may enjoy getting out and about and leaving your usual environment behind. If you are tied to the home base or desk, pick up the phone, write letters and generally make contact. Someone, somewhere, may be waiting to hear from you!

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Money is an emotional thing, and could be the cause of a difference of opinion, but that's probably not entirely unexpected! Domestic spending seems to be high on the agenda and you may be best advised to stick to non-controversial items.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
It's all a matter of trust. If partners honestly believe that you will not stick to your word, they are deeply mistaken. You should not shift one millimetre from your principles, no matter what bribes, blandishments or benefits are to be placed in your path.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Your planetary patterns signify that emotionally and professionally you are still in a strong position. However, you must not be tempted into the belief that appearances, whether yours or anyone else's, are a reliable indication of the inner reality.

Karnataka shuts liquor stores along Kerala border

Mangaluru: The Dakshina Kannada district administration on Tuesday further tightened the curbs on the entry of Keralites into the State by shutting 24 liquor and toddy shops located along the inter-state border in Mangaluru, Bantwal, Puttur and Sullia taluks, from August 3 to 15. These watering holes along the porous border used to be frequented by a huge number of customers from Kasaragod, said officials. ENS

Doubly vaxxed? You could still be a carrier

Those fully vaccinated drop guard, leading to high transmission and mutation of the virus, warn experts

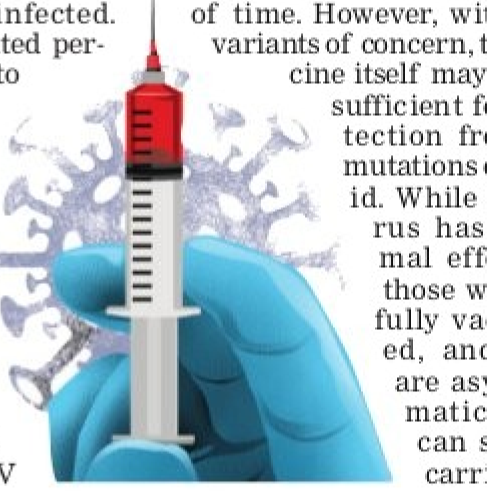
CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru

THE Centre for Disease Control recently changed its testing guidelines for the double-dose vaccinated, and made it mandatory for them too to be tested, if exposed to Covid-19. Health experts in India warn that those who are fully vaccinated should be extra mindful of not just breakthrough infections and transmission of infection, but also know that vaccinated people could play a key role in transmission.

"People were waiting for the vaccine. Once they took both shots, risk-taking behaviour like moving out, meeting people, not wearing masks etc has gone up. In some areas with low transmission or low seropositivity till now, it could result in sustained transmission of the infection to another individual who is not vaccinated," said Dr Chandrakant Lahariya, epidemiologist, policy and vaccine expert.

He explains that this could even be the reason why some metropolitan cities are seeing a high number of infections in high-rise buildings, where most residents are double-vaccinated but socio-economic engagements are happening.

Agreeing with this and expressing concern on breakthrough infections, Dr Giridhara Babu R, senior epidemiologist and member of the Covid-19 Technical Advisory Committee says, "It is the responsibility of vaccinated people to protect those who do not have the privilege of getting vaccinated yet. Vaccination does not mean they're immune to the infection. It only means they're protected against death or hospitalisation, if they get infected. Therefore, vaccinated persons should adhere to strict masking, and follow other Covid-appropriate behaviour that minimises risk."



Explaining the reason for such transmission, Dr S N Aravinda, Consultant, Internal Medicine, Aster RV Hospital, says, "Some individuals may not have sufficient antibody response to the vaccine, and antibodies post vaccination do not stay permanently, which is why booster shots are required after a certain period of time. However, with new variants of concern, the vaccine itself may not be sufficient for protection from all mutations of Covid. While the virus has minimal effect on those who are fully vaccinated, and they are asymptomatic, they can still be carriers of the virus and spread it to other people who are more at risk."

If taking vaccination leads to reckless behaviour and people stop wearing masks, hand hygiene and social distancing, it will lead to a higher risk of virus mutations and its continued spread, and prolong the pandemic, he adds.

Following Covid-appropriate behaviour is most important, says Dr Brunda, Consultant - Internal Medicine, Aster CMI Hospital. "Along with vaccination, following Covid-appropriate behaviour such as regular hand washing, social distancing and wearing of masks at all times is the key to curtail infections. People should not get complacent and must follow self-discipline."

Antibody cocktail centres will blunt Covid third wave edge

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru

WHILE Karnataka's 13-member Technical Advisory Committee under Dr Devi Shetty has given a preparedness list to mitigate the third wave, clinical doctors, including pulmonologists, say the state should also think of opening monoclonal antibody daycare centres.

"Every district, or at least major cities, should have monoclonal antibody daycare centres along with triage centres. I have administered it to more than 100 patients now, and seen tremendous results," said Dr Satyanarayana Mysore, pulmonologist, Manipal Hospitals.

Monoclonal antibodies are synthetic versions of the body's natural line of defence against severe infection, now deployed after the virus has broken past the vaccine's barrier of protection. The therapy is meant for Covid patients early on in their infection, and those who are at high risk of getting even sicker to help keep them out of hospital. This risk group includes people aged 65 and older, who have diabetes, high blood pressure, cardiac disease, obesity, asthma or who are immuno-compromised.

According to Dr Gopikrishna, consultant physician, Sevakshetra Hospital, availability of this treatment at subsidised rates will definitely help those who cannot afford it. "The drug will cost around Rs 1 lakh. The cocktail drug has definitely been a miracle," he said.

Recently, Biocon Biologics, in collaboration with US-based Adagio Therapeutics, applied for an exclusive licence to manufacture and commercialise antibody treatment, for prevention and treatment of Covid-19.

"Recently, FDA permitted the use of such treatment in breakthrough infections too. It makes a lot of sense for the government to invest in treatment of Covid-19 and not just in prevention," said Dr Sanjay Gururaj, consultant physician at Shanti Hosptial.

Number of Covid deaths increases in Karnataka

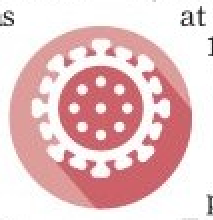
THE State was seeing daily discharges of 2,500-3,200, but since July 29, they dropped to 1,332 on July 30 and 1,631 on July 31. The figure was 1,502 for August 1, 1,383 for August 2 and 1,376 on Tuesday.



Though the test positivity rate — the number of people testing positive per 100 tests conducted — is falling, the rate of fall has slowed down. While it was 7.46 per cent on Monday, it came down to 7.45 per cent on Tuesday.

At the same time, the number of Covid deaths has increased, with the State reporting 38 Covid mortalities on Tuesday. On August 1 and August 2, the state reported 25 deaths. The mortality rate has remained constant at 1.25 per cent since July 13, though the health department's aim was to bring it down to below 1 per cent.

Bengaluru Urban reported 477 new cases on Tuesday, which was an increase from the Monday's daily positive cases of 290. Bengaluru witnessed the lowest addition in fresh cases on July 25 with 165 cases reported, followed by 266 on July 19.

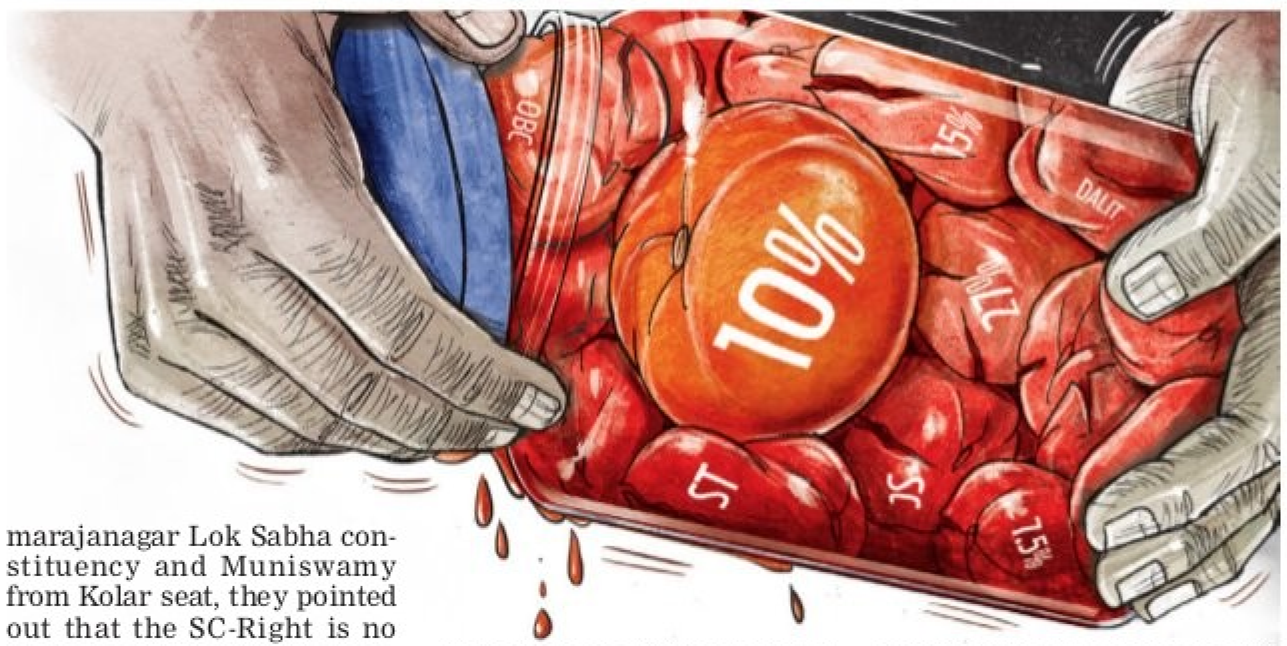
BJP sharpens SC outreach plans in Cong turf

Party has 2 MPs and 3 MLAs from SC-Right community, but there was no representation in the previous cabinet

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru



HAVING seen success in drawing a chunk of the SC subcastes, the BJP is further finetuning its social engineering strategies to woo the SC-Right community which, till recently, was solidly behind the Congress. The party, which has set out to expand its social base and get an image makeover under Basavaraj Bommai as Chief Minister, views the formation of the new cabinet as a good opportunity to reach out to the SC-Right and other groups among the backward communities.

In the previous cabinet, the SC-Right community had found no representation, and this grouse had been taken up with prominent leaders of the RSS and also with Union Home Minister Amit Shah, BJP national general secretary (organisation) B L Santhosh and others. The Sangh and the BJP leaders are keen on bringing together the most backward castes and SCs, considered to be strongly behind the Congress for decades. With an intent to make a strong statement, the party has even scheduled the induction of expelled BSP MLA N Mahesh on Thursday. The move is being seen as an attempt to weaken the Congress base in the Old Mysuru region.

Sources said the party is looking to accommodate an MLA from the community in the cabinet as part of its social engineering gameplan while community leaders are also campaigning hard. Referring to the victories of veteran leader V Srinivasa Prasad from Chamarajanagar Lok Sabha constituency and Muniswamy from Kolar seat, they pointed out that the SC-Right is no longer solidly with the Congress. These leaders won from Congress bastions despite the BJP's weak presence, stunning the Grand Old Party and raising eyebrows in political circles, they stressed.

The community has a sizeable number in the Old Mysuru region as well as the southern districts and is a deciding factor when it comes to voting. It has also strongly supported AHINDA leader Siddaramaiah. While the Congress has senior leaders in the likes of Mallikarjuna Kharge, G Parameshwara, H C Mahadevappa, R Dhruvanarayana, P M Narendraswamy and others, the BJP appointed Govind Karjol as Deputy Chief Minister while MP A Narayanaswamy was inducted into the Union Cabinet recently as part of its outreach.

> The shifting of the community vote will benefit BJP candidates in the local body, Assembly and General Elections. The BJP is no longer a party of 'baniyas', it is now of the masses
>
> Narayaswamy,
> BJP State SC Morcha president

The BJP has senior MLA M P Kumaraswamy from Mudigere, Nehru Olekar from Haveri and Harshavardhan from Nanjangud who belong to the SC-Right community. "We have appealed to the party bosses to give representation to our community and make one of us a minister so that it will further help in strengthening the party base," Harshavardhan told TNIE.

Leaders argue that representation in the cabinet will help reach out to the community with an appeal to support the party in the ensuing Zilla and Taluk panchayat elections.

BJP State SC Morcha president Narayaswamy said the community is no longer with the Congress as educated youths and even those in rural areas are looking to the BJP. This is evident from emphatic victories in Chamarajanagar and Kolar Lok Sabha election and the good performance in Assembly polls, winning in tough seats, he reasoned.

"The shifting of the community vote will benefit BJP candidates in the local body, Assembly and General Elections. The BJP is no longer a party of 'baniyas', it is now of the masses and the downtrodden. The focus of the Narendra Modi government's programmes has been the welfare of the marginalised," he said. The SC-Right community has a strong presence in about 90 constituencies in the Old Mysuru region and will play a crucial role in the expansion of the party base in traditional Congress and JD(S) bastion, he added.

Speaker post an option for Shettar?

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

AFTER former chief minister Jagadish Shettar refused to be part of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's cabinet, party leaders are said to be trying to convince the senior leader to relent.

Sources said that party leaders are also looking at an option of making him Assembly Speaker if incumbent Vishveshwara Hegde Kageri is inducted into the cabinet.

Last week, after Bommai took oath as CM, some senior leaders in the party, including Jagadish Shettar, seemed upset. Shettar, in fact, openly said he is not willing to join the cabinet. Shettar, who was CM in 2012-13, had stated that he had agreed to work as a minister in the Yediyurappa Cabinet from 2019-2021 as the latter is a senior leader. One of the senior-most BJP MLAs, Shettar earlier served as Speaker in 2008, before he was inducted into the previous cabinet.

When contacted, Shettar said he personally does not want to become Speaker, but did not reveal more.

POWER PLAY

Hard bargaining behind scenes ahead of cabinet formation

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

AS the clock ticks for the formation of the new cabinet, there have been tough negotiations over the past few days behind the scenes over the induction of loyalists of former Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, who was instrumental in bringing the BJP to power in the state.

While just a handful of ministers may be sworn in during the first round, reliable sources told TNIE that by accommodating the Yediyurappa camp with plum portfolios, the party will be seen as being respectful to the former CM and also the Lingayat lobby, which has strongly stood behind him and the party. The sources said some of the ministerial probables had even received a call-up late on Tuesday evening and some cabinet berths may be kept vacant for any later expansion.

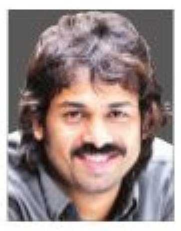
After he stepped down as CM, Yediyurappa had announced that he will work for the party in the state and ensure that it wins 130 Assembly seats in 2023 and 25 Lok Sabha seats in 2024. The BJP may want to play it safe while dealing with the Yediyurappa camp as, the last time when he had quit the party to form the Karnataka Janata Party, the BJP slumped badly across the state. The stubborn push to accommodate Yediyurappa's loyalists, including his younger son BY Vijayendra, is being linked to their wholehearted participation in the election campaigns for the Assembly election, which is about 20 months away.

With bypolls due to the Hangal and Sindagi Assembly segments, the BSY camp is hopeful that some of the loyalists can be inducted into the cabinet and enter the Assembly from one of these seats. The Sindagi seat fell vacant after M C Managuli JDS passed away and Hangal fell vacant after the death of BJP's CM Udasi. The bypolls will have to be held within six months.

Madhu Bangarappa's exit may dent JDS chances in Shivamogga

RAMACHANDRA V GUNARI
@ Shivamogga

THE entry of former JDS MLA Madhu Bangarappa into the Congress is causing some political churn in all the three parties in the district - the Congress, BJP and the JDS. While his entry has been a boost for the Congress, it seems to have dented the JDS' prospects. Though there is no immediate impact on the BJP, the development may become a worry if the party fails to meet the demands of the Ediga community, which has traditionally aligned with the Congress.



With the new cabinet in the process of being formed, two sitting BJP MLAs - Haratalu Halappa of Sagar Assembly constituency and Kumar Bangarappa of Sorab constituency - belonging to the Ediga community, seem to be hopefuls for a cabinet berth.

A leader from the community said, "We supported S Bangarappa. After Bangarappa left the BJP, most of us continued to support the party due to Halappa and Belur Gopalakrishna. After Bangarappa's demise, his elder son Kumar joined the BJP, while Madhu continued with the JDS. In the B S Yediyurappa government, senior leader K S Eshwarappa was given the RDPR portfolio. Now, our community is looking up to BJP leaders to give a cabinet berth to Kumar or Halappa."

However, the Ediga community is divided, with Halappa and Kumar on one side and Gopalakrishna and Madhu on the other. The BJP may look to mobilise the support of the Edigas by giving a ministerial berth to either Halappa or Kumar.

The Congress, especially in Sorab constituency, stands to gain with Madhu's entry as well as in regaining support of the Ediga community after a gap of more than a decade, as they had supported S Bangarappa when he was associated with the Congress in 2009-10, before joining the JDS. "Madhu's entry is a gain for Congress. He had many supporters and friends in the district Congress. Now, the Sorab Congress has got a boost to put up a better show in the next Assembly elections," said H S Sundaresh, president of Shivamogga district Congress.

The development is expected to impact the JDS more. In the 2013 elections, the party got three seats - Sorab was won by Madhu, Shivamogga Rural by Sharada Pooryanaik and Bhadravathi by late M J Appaji. But the partly lost all three in the 2018 elections. The death of M J Appaji and the exit of Madhu can affect its prospects in the district. The exit of former president of district JD(S) and senior cooperative man R M Manjunatha Gowda of Tirthahalli also accounted for the party losing its strength in the district.

Horatti seeks release of local area fund for MLCs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

LEGISLATIVE Council Chairman Basavaraj Horatti on Tuesday chaired a meeting of 52 Council members where they decided to seek release of Local Area Development funds which are long overdue to the legislators.

Horatti said that the local area development funds had not been released to the 75 members of the Council for long due to the Covid-19 pandemic. At the meeting, he reminded the officials from the Finance Department and the Directorate of Economic and Statistics that the legislators were given only a part of the funds for 2018-19, 2019-20 and 2020-21 and insisted that it be released immediately for taking up various works and clearing of payments.

Considering that some of the Council members, like himself, represent four districts and that Zilla and Taluk Panchayat elections are due by December, pending works need to be completed, he noted. The Finance Department officials, he said, had in principle agreed to take up the issue.

KPCC Working President Saleem Ahmed said that Shivakumar is scheduled to meet AICC General Secretary in-charge of Karnataka Randeep Surjewala and AICC General Secretary K C Venugopal to discuss the party organization issues.

Surjewala had held back-to-back meetings with party leaders in Tumakuru, Hubballi and Mysuru in the last few days as the party has started preparations for the upcoming elections. Elections to the local bodies and legislative council seats are scheduled to be held early next year.

Meanwhile, Shivakumar's visit to Jaipur to meet Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot fuelled speculations over concerns within the party ahead of the cabinet reshuffle in that state.

On Sunday, Haryana Congress Chief Kumari Selja had also met Gehlot. When contacted, Shivakumar, however, said that it was a courtesy call.

MEKEDATU PROJECT

AAP leaders to sit on hunger strike tomorrow

> Mekedatu is a drinking water project and it will not have any impact on the release of water to Tamil Nadu. BJP and Congress leaders in Karnataka should convince their party leaders in Tamil Nadu
>
> – Usha Mohan, AAP leader

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

STATE leaders of the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) will hold a one-day hunger strike on Thursday, and demand that the Karnataka government start the work on the Mekedatu Balancing Reservoir project and complete it within 12 months. In Tamil Nadu, BJP leaders are holding a hunger strike against the project on the same day.

AAP members, including its state convener Prithvi Reddy, will hold the hunger strike from 9 am to 6 pm at Maurya Circle in Bengaluru, said AAP leader Phaniraj S V.

The party is demanding that the government set a 12-month deadline to complete the project that aims to provide drinking water to people in Bengaluru. BJP, Congress and the JDS that were in power in the state have failed to take up the project due to lack of political will, the AAP leader said adding that the Congress and BJP must make their stand clear on the project. The state government has made it clear that it will go ahead with the project after getting the necessary approvals.

CM: Need experience, new vigour in cabinet

RESPONDING to a question on a position in his cabinet for former chief minister and veteran BS Yediyurappa's son BY Vijayendra, Bommai said Nadda and Yediyurappa will discuss it before approving the final list. This is the closest acknowledgement of Vijayendra's attempt to be part of the cabinet.

"The cabinet formation has been delayed solely because of the push to include Vijayendra in the ministry," said a senior BJP leader, suggesting that Yediyurappa is pushing for his son's induction into the cabinet, but the party Central leadership is not keen on it.

Party sources said that Bommai's preferred list for the cabinet includes more than a dozen names suggested by Yediyurappa. "It is not a question of removing seniors or inducting juniors. We have to prepare for 2023 elections, but we also have to ensure good, pro-people administration. For that, we need experience as well as new vigour," Bommai said when asked about the constitution of his cabinet. He added that he expects the expansion to be done in two phases, depending on the number of ministers the Central leadership approves.

HISTORIC MOMENT

2 centuries after peasants bring down British flag, Tricolour to go up in DK village

The British Treasury in Bellare village of Sullia taluk is being spruced up

VINCENT D'SOUZA @Mangaluru

WHEN the Tricolour goes up for the first time at Banglegudde in Bellare village of Sullia taluk in Dakshina Kannada on the 75th Independence Day, it will mark a significant milestone in the history of the region.

On March 30, 1837, peasants, who revolted against the British Raj for imposing high taxes on agricultural produce, had seized the British Treasury that was located at this place and had brought down the English flag.

The historical place, which was a picture of neglect for long, is getting spruced up for the August 15 flag-hoisting as part of the 'Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav' celebrations. A small tiled-roof structure built in 1804, and which housed the British Treasury, still stands on about one acre land overlooking the village school.

Sullia MLA S Angara, who visited the place recently, told TNIE that a private consultant has been entrusted the task of preparing a plan to develop the historical site into a tourist attraction.

According to Dr Prabhakar Shishila, a retired Economics lecturer who has penned a novel on the Sullia peasant movement, it is this event which first triggered the spark of independence struggle in the erstwhile South Canara district. He said Sullia and Puttur, which were ruled by a Kodagu king, were separated from Kodagu and brought under South Canara by the British. Under British rule, peasants had to pay one-sixth of their agricultural produce as tax while it was just one-tenth under the king. This led them to revolt.

About 1,200 peasants of Sullia, led by Kedamballi Rama Gowda, seized the British Treasury in Bellare and hoisted the Vijaya Dhwaja of Kodagu dynasty after bringing down the British flag. The peasants then marched to Mangaluru and repeated the same exercise at Bavutagudde. Shishila said that by the time they reached Mangaluru, the crowd had swelled to 5,000 people which forced the British to escape out of fear for life. However, within 13 days, the British came back strongly along with troops from Thalacherry and Mumbai, and quelled the rebellion. Then the peasant leaders were hanged in public.

On the occasion of India's 50th Independence Day in 1998, several organisations had carried out a foot march from Sullia to Mangaluru seeking the government's attention to develop the historical site, but there was no progress.

The Shivaji Nagar police have detained a notorious rowdy under the Goonda Act. Accordingly, Syed Naseer (31) has been remanded in judicial custody. Police said Naseer is involved in over 11 criminal cases, including an attempt to murder.

Shakereh murder: Khaleeli asks govt to uphold SC order

Ex-husband of deceased says State must oppose convict Shraddhanand's mercy plea

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

IN the face of an appeal for Presidential pardon by his first wife Shakereh Namazi's killer Swami Shraddhanand, alias Murli Manohar Misra, former Indian diplomat Akbar Khaleeli has urged the Karnataka government to "take suo motu cognizance of the move and ensure that the Supreme Court judgment on life term to Shraddhanand is respected in letter and spirit". Khaleeli told The New Indian Express that he would call on the Home secretary in this connection shortly. Khaleeli met the DG, Prisons & Correctional Services on Tuesday morning and discussed the issue with him.

Meanwhile, Nagendra Chowdhry, deputy jailer, Sagar Central Prison, Madhya Pradesh, where Shraddhanand is currently lodged, said that during District Judge Dev Narayan Misra's recent visit to the prison, the former had spoken to him about seeking Presidential pardon and early release.

"Shraddhanand had requested the jail authorities for a copy of the Supreme Court judgment. He said he would write to the President for early release on grounds of good behaviour. We have provided him with a copy of the judgment," said the prison officer. He added that he has not yet written the letter.

> Shraddhanand had requested the jail authorities for a copy of the Supreme Court judgment. He said he would write to the President for early release on grounds of good behaviour
> Nagendra Chowdhry, deputy jailer, Sagar Central Prison

Shraddhanand was transferred to Sagar Central Prison from Bangalore Central Prison in 2011. He was arrested in 1994 for burying his wife Shakereh alive in the backyard of her sprawling mansion -- 81, Richmond Road -- on May 28, 1991, after he had laced her tea with sedatives. Three years later, on March 30, 1994, Shakereh's skeletal remains were exhumed after one of her daughters, Sabah, from her first marriage with Khaleeli, filed a missing complaint at the Ashoknagar police station on June 10, 1992.

Shraddhanand was convicted under Sections 302 and 201 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) for murder, causing disappearance of evidence and giving false information to screen himself in the high-profile murder case. On May 21, 2000, a Bengaluru sessions court awarded death sentence to Shraddhanand, which was confirmed by the Karnataka High Court in 2005. On July 22, 2008, the Supreme Court substituted his death sentence with "imprisonment for life and direct(ed) that he shall not be released from prison till the rest of his life".

Shakareh was the granddaughter of former Dewan of Mysore, Sir Mirza Ismail. She had first met Shraddhanand in 1983, when she and her family visited the erstwhile Nawab of Rampur in New Delhi. He was asked to come to Bengaluru to help her sort out her property issues. Khaleeli was posted as a diplomat to Iran around this time. Shraddhanand started working on Shakereh's alleged 'desire' for a son, and convinced her that with his occult powers he could make her beget a son.

In 1985, Shakereh and Khaleeli got divorced after 21 years of marriage.

The couple had four daughters. She married Shraddhanand on April 17, 1986. In 1987, he managed to get general power of attorney over his wife's property. Greed made him insecure as he saw Shakereh interact with her daughters. That's when he planned to murder her.

CID begins investigation into Congolese man's death

MANJU SHETTAR @ Bengaluru

A day after African nationals held a protest against an alleged custodial death of a Congolese citizen, CID officials on Tuesday began an investigation into the case and collected evidence.

Even as tension gripped the vicinity of the JC Nagar police station on Monday when the protest turned violent, followed by a lathi charge, police stepped up their efforts to identify those who instigated the attack, which injured four cops and three protesters.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, Deputy Commissioner of Police (North) Dharmendra Kumar Meena said the postmortem will be conducted on Wednesday as per NHRC guidelines. Meanwhile, the body of 27-year-old Joel Shindani Malu alias Joah will be handed to officials of the Democratic Republic of the Congo embassy after the completion of all formalities. One officer from the embassy will witness the postmortem, which will be videographed and a copy of the same will be sent to the National Human Rights Commission.

Meanwhile, five of the protesters who allegedly created a ruckus have been produced before the magistrate after their arrest on Monday.

"We have identified them as Araamann Ngoy, Clement Bakemda, Yousif Maketa, Juvanc Makungu and Guelorg, all aged 24-26 years. We are yet to verify their documents and ascertain if they are overstaying and have informed the FRRO. The accused have been subjected to medical examination since they were under the influence of alcohol," the police officer added.

A senior officer from JC Nagar police station said: "We have taken up two cases, including the attacks on PSI Latha and PSI Mallikarjuna, during the protest. A minor boy was injured when the accused pushed him in a bid to escape. Based on a complaint by the boy's parents, a case has been filed."

The CID officials have collected CCTV footage from the surroundings to help in identifying the accused involved in the violence and a special team has been formed to track them down.

Police have taken action against 154 persons in the North division, who were caught staying without valid documents.

Bengaluru: Rajajinagar police on Tuesday arrested a 24-year-old daily wage labourer who allegedly clubbed his friend to death over the issue of charging a newly purchased mobile phone. The incident took place at an under-construction site on July 28. The accused has been identified as Akash Khushwa, who murdered Anil Kumar. Both hail from Madhya Pradesh. A senior police officer said that Anil was staying at an under-construction building. On July 28, both he and Akash, under the influence of alcohol, went to sleep on the first floor. Anil had purchased a phone and an argument ensued over charging it. In the melee, Akash picked up a wooden log and assaulted Anil. As a result, the latter died.

Business loss drives man to end life

Bengaluru: A businessman, who had suffered huge losses in his business, allegedly ended his life at a lodge in Nelamangala, on Monday. The deceased has been identified as Shakeer Ahmed (28), a resident of Mudigere in Chikkamagaluru district. Police said Ahmed had checked into Vajreshwari Lodge near Kunigal by-pass road on July 29. He had told the manager that he would be checking out on Monday. When the manager went to inquire in the afternoon, Ahmed did not open the door even after repeated attempts. Covid deaths rising: DK, Kolar record high mortality growth rate

IFFATH FATHIMA @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA managed Covid infections relatively well in July, compared to states like Tamil Nadu, Kerala and Maharashtra, which witnessed a surge. However, two districts -- Dakshina Kannada and Kolar -- have recorded high mortality Moving Growth Rate (MGR), which experts say must be brought down in the coming weeks, to avert the third wave. MGR is the percentage expression of growth of the value during the period, over the percentage at the beginning of the period. Higher MGR indicates shorter doubling period or increase in daily cases or deaths.

According to analysis by Jeevan Raksha, an initiative of Proxima, a management consulting firm, Dakshina Kannada is seeing a higher number of positive cases in the past few days, even reporting a higher number than Bengaluru on Sunday. The 28-day mortality MGR (July 3-31) in Dakshina Kannada is at 15.3 per cent, while Kolar at at 16.9 per cent.

Experts say it is imperative that each district maintains the 28-Day Moving Growth Rate below 10 per cent in the coming weeks, to avert the predicted third wave.

In July, Dakshina Kannada recorded around 1 lakh Covid cases, and saw 197 deaths, whereas Bengaluru Urban, with a total of 12.28 lakh cases – 12 times more than Dakshina Kannada -- saw only 207 deaths. Similarly, the death toll in Kolar shot up by over 15 per cent, while Karnataka's toll went up by only 3.6 per cent in July.

Sanjeev Mysore, convener, Jeevan Raksha, said, "It is imperative for Karnataka to be more alert than ever before, and tighten the loose ends. It has to thoroughly look at the unusual aberration in district-wise performance. The State administration should carry out an effective root cause analysis to find the reason for sharp variance in some of these districts, and fix the issue as soon as possible."

However, Karnataka has done fairly well among in the 28-day period. India added 1.1 million new cases, with 74 per cent of the cases coming from five states -- Kerala, Maharashtra, Odisha, Karnataka and Tamil Nadu. Kerala contributed 38 per cent of the new cases (4.29 lakh), followed by Maharashtra with 19 per cent (2.18 lakh).

Former bank manager among two nabbed for gold fraud

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Sathanur police of Ramanagara district arrested two persons, including a former bank manager, for allegedly replacing 9.5kg of pledged gold with fake gold jewellery, and selling the original. Police recovered gold worth Rs 2.12 crore from the accused.

The accused were identified as Anant Nag K, a resident of Peenya and former bank manager, and Rajneesh S Jain (42), of Gandhi Nagar in Mandya, who received the gold from him.

Police said the assistant general manager of the bank lodged a complaint on July 16, alleging that the valuer appointed by the bank, Rajanna, had certified 9.5kg of gold pledged with the Honniganahalli branch as genuine, though it was fake. Based on the complaint, Rajanna was picked up for questioning and he pleaded innocence. A further probe revealed that former bank manager Anant Nag was involved in the fraud.

"Nag identified pledged gold for which customers had failed to repay loans for years, and replaced such gold with fake ones in the past three years. He had stolen 9.5kg of gold belonging of 352 customers, and sold it to Jain," the police said.

Thanks to the CM, Shiggaon to now get permanent helipad

AMIT S UPADHYE @ Hubballi

WITH Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai assuming the most-important job in the State, the security apparatus around him and at his residences at Shiggaon in Haveri district and Hubballi in Dharwad district is being upgraded. A permanent helipad is being constructed in Shiggaon, while watchtowers are coming up near both his houses. The helipad will be built at a cost of Rs 2-3 crore, a police official revealed.

State police and intelligence sleuths recently visited Bommai's residences and chose two possible sites for the helipad. While one is located in a piece of revenue land, the other is in a private property. The work on identifying the suitable spots started the day after Bommai assumed charge as chief minister, the officer said.

"The GPS locations of the helipad sites have been shared with the state authorities by the teams that visited Shiggaon recently. Not just the chief minister, other VIPs too can use the helipads. Also, patients can be airlifted from here in case of medical emergencies. The helipad will have a secured compound, guard room and other facilities," said a police official.

Teams from State Intelligence surveyed both the residences and their surroundings. Details of the existing security systems, CCTV networks and details of workers have been taken by the police teams.

The security watchtowers will be at 10-12 feet height and can accommodate one armed guard. "The CCTV system and boundary guarding will be redone as per the security requirement. Bommai, who represents the Shiggaon constituency, is likely to stay at his Hubballi residence," the official said.

Surveillance by canine squads too will be increased. "As of now, the canine squads and security teams do a thorough check a day before the chief minister visit an are," he explained.

More men, security for the CM

The number of staffers at the residences of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai will also be increased in the coming days. Details of the present security system, CCTV network and details of workers have been taken by the police teams.

YSRC man held for ex-minister's murder

CBI officials had earlier questioned Sunil on several occasions on his links with YS Vivekananda Reddy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kadapa

THE Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) probing the killing of former minister YS Vivekananda Reddy at his residence in Pulivendula in March, 2019, reportedly arrested Sunil Kumar Yadav, a YSRC activist, at Goa on Monday night. Sunil Pulivendula was produced before court in Goa and was shifted to Kadapa on a Prisoner Transit warrant. He is likely to be produced before court in Kadapa on Wednesday.

The CBI officials had earlier questioned Sunil on several occasions on his links with Viveka. Soon after the statement of Rangaiah, watchman of Viveka's house, was recorded by the magistrate court, the CBI had intensified its investigation and started questioning several suspects again. Sunil had recently filed a petition in the High Court stating that the CBI was using third degree methods on him and harassing his family members. He sought orders from the court directing the CBI not to arrest him.

Sunil went 'missing' from his Pulivendula house a few days ago and the CBI officials had launched a search for him. He was finally nabbed from Goa. Sunil had business dealings with Viveka, sources said. On the other hand, the CBI continued to grill other suspects, including Erra Gangi Reddy, a close aide of Viveka, and one Uma Shankar.

Y S Vivekananda Reddy, a former minister, was found dead at his residence in Kadapa district of Andhra Pradesh on March 15, 2019. He was alone at home at the time. His family had alleged that the death was not due to natural causes and a case of unnatural death had been registered.

Current Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Y S Jagan Mohan Reddy had then alleged that the ruling TDP played a role in the murder and demanded a CBI probe.

Jagan Mohan Reddy took over as Chief Minister in 2019 and faced embarrassment when his cousin and Y S Vivekananda Reddy's daughter went to high court last year.

Police verify documents of motorists at Talapady inter-state border on Tuesday

Karnataka imposes more restrictions on Kerala border

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mangaluru

DAKSHINA Kannada district administration on Tuesday further tightened the curbs on the entry of Keralites into the State by shutting 24 liquor and toddy shops located along the inter-state border from August 3 to 15. These watering holes along the porous border used to be frequented by a huge number of customers from Kasaragod, said officials.

An order issued by the Deputy Commissioner K V Rajendra said these liquor and toddy shops are located in Mangaluru, Bantwal, Puttur and Sullia taluks.

In another communique with his Kasaragod counterpart Bhandari Swagat Ranveerchand, DC Rajendra said even Kerala patients who are not critically ill will require to furnish RT-PCR test results to enter Karnataka.

Meanwhile, Keralites continued protests for the second day, condemning the restrictions imposed on the national highway by the Karnataka government.

Karnataka state ADGP (Law and Order) C H Prathap Reddy along with DC Rajendra, Police Commissioner N Shashikumar and SP Rishikesh Sonawane visited the inter-state border check posts at Talapady, Kodange and Salethur to supervise the surveillance measures.

Speaking to the media, Reddy said the restrictions will continue until the positivity rate comes down to normal level in the neighbouring Kerala. For those travelling via trains without RT-PCR negative report, the ADGP said the district administration has opened a facility at Town Hall in Mangaluru for testing as well as quarantine.

48 Keralites who arrived by trains quarantined in Mangaluru

Mangaluru: As many as 48 passengers who arrived in two trains on Tuesday were quarantined at Town Hall in Mangaluru by district health officials as part of the surveillance. Dakshina Kannada district health officer Dr Kishore Kumar said that they will undergo RT-PCR tests and if they test positive, they would be shifted to Covid care centres. On Monday, as many as 51 Keralites were quarantined, results came today.

No road connectivity, flood victims forced to stay in relief centres

MAHESH M GOUDAR @ Bagalkot

THOUGH water level in the Krishna River basin has receded, uncertainty still prevails. People continue to stay at relief centres as the road connecting villages have been washed away in Jamkhandi.

According to the district administration, "As many as 28 relief centres have been opened in Jamkhandi taluk and all are functioning till date. A total of 22 villages are affected in the same taluk. Over 9,500 people have been accommodated in those relief centres for the past 10 days. The relief centres at a few villages will remain open until the roads are repaired."

According to sources, "The movement of heavy vehicles on Chikkapadasalagi barrage has been restricted as it was damaged partially due to the floods. Apart from this, a couple of bridges, including Yadwad-Mudhol, have also been damaged, with only motorcycles and pedestrians allowed on the same."

Prashanth C, tahsildar of Jamkhandi, told The New Indian Express, "A couple of villages situated on the banks of Krishna River, are still under water. The affected are still accommodated in relief centres as a few villages are cut off due to road damage. Around 50 per cent of the people in those centres are likely to vacate on Wednesday as the road repair works are going in full swing in the affected areas."

"The inflow at Hippargi Barrage, which is built across Krishna river, is around 2.3 lakh cusecs and the same amount of water is being released. In Ghataprabha river, the inflow has reduced to 21,743 cusecs, where it was around one lakh cusecs a week ago. While in Malaprabha river, the inflow remains at 1,694 cusecs," as per the district administration.

K'taka HC issues notice to BSY, family in graft complaint by social activist

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday issued a notice to former chief minister BS Yediyurappa, his family members and others on a petition filed by a social activist, questioning the order passed by a special court rejecting his private complaint filed against them in a corruption case.

Justice S Sunil Dutt Yadav issued the notice to Yediyurappa, his son and state BJP vice-president BY Vijayendra, MLA ST Somashekar, IAS officers Dr GC Prakash, Shashidhar Maradi, Sanjay Sree, Chandrakanth Ramalingam, K Ravi and Virupakshappa Yamakanamardi, after hearing the petition by TJ Abraham.

The petitioner alleged that Yediyurappa and his family members accepted crores of rupees as bribe through 'shell companies' from a contractor for getting him bids to construct a multi-crore housing project of the BDA.

He contended that the former chief minister misused his influence and office to get the sanction for prosecution denied and got the office of the Governor to make out a letter dated June 24, 2021 addressed to the complainant. The letter was also made available to the DySP of ACB, Bengaluru. The public prosecutor, who is not supposed to represent any accused persons, was used to produce the letter to the special court, which rejected his complaint. The DySP of ACB was present in the court on June 30, 2021 unauthorisedly and in violation of the Standard Operating Procedure issued by the high court, he alleged.

IN THE HC

The petitioner charged that the Governor of Karnataka sent a letter indicating the rejection of sanction to prosecute only Yediyurappa, but keeping quiet about Somashekar, although the request for sanction for prosecution was made through a common letter on November 20, 2020.

If there was no sanction against some accused, the trial court should have passed an order for investigation against the other accused or transferred the case to another court under Section 408 of CrPC. The procedure followed by the trial court has been vitiated and contrary to the procedure laid out in the code and authenticated by various judgements of the SC, he alleged.

Madras HC strikes down TN's ban on e- gaming

Chennai: In a relief to online gaming companies, the Madras High Court on Tuesday struck down the amendment brought in the Tamil Nadu Gaming & Police Laws (Amendment) Act, 2021, that banned betting or wagering in cyberspace on poker. The court observed, ".... by imposing a wide-ranging blanket ban, the State has completely failed to meet the "least intrusive" measure test, and therefore, the impugned amendment falls foul of Article 19(1)(g) of the Constitution." The issue pertains to a batch of pleas moved by online gaming companies challenging the ordinance passed by the State banning it in November 2020.

The incident reportedly took place when the victim -- who lives along with her mother and 12-year-old brother -- was selling handicrafts on the wayside near Manarcad. SI tries to rape trainee cop, suspended

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mahabubabad/Warangal

IN a heinous act, the Sub-Inspector (SI) of Maripeda police station in Mahabubabad district allegedly attempted to rape a trainee woman Sub-Inspector attached to the same station late Monday night.

The incident came to light on Tuesday, when the victim, belonging to the Scheduled Caste community, approached Warangal Police Commissioner Dr Tarun Joshi with a complaint. Maripeda SI Polireddy Srinivas Reddy has since been placed under suspension.

According to sources, Srinivas Reddy forced the trainee into accompanying him to a secluded place on the pretext of conducting a raid on the makers of black jaggery, which is used for making illicitly distilled liquor (arrack). As they were travelling in a vehicle, he tried to outrage her modesty.

As Srinivas Reddy made advances, she fought back and sustained injuries in the scuffle. She managed to escape from him and rushed to her temporary residence in the mandal headquarters. On Tuesday, she told her parents what had happened. They then rushed to the Commissioner and lodged a complaint of rape attempt. He then set up an inquiry committee, which reported that the SI did, in fact, try to rape the trainee.

Interestingly, the SI received an award of appreciation from Mahabubabad SP on Tuesday morning for seizing 120 quintals of black jaggery. Later in the evening, he was placed under suspension.

Meanwhile, in Hyderabad, a group of Mahila Congress workers staged a dharna when they were denied permission to make a representation to the DGP at his office, seeking action against the SI. Later, the workers, led by Suintha Rao, submitted their memorandum at the office of the Home Minister in Lakdi-Ka-Pul.

'PARENTS HAILED NEW GRADING SYSTEM'

"THIS has affected their final grades. Many students are disappointed as they expected more marks. They feel they should have opted for the State SSLC Board, which conducted the final exams," added the parent. He also pointed out that since all the exams were held online this year, there was scope for malpractice and some students got more marks than they deserved.

But given the pandemic situation, CBSE had to come out with some solution and they did their best, said Mansoor Ali Khan, member, board of management, DPS Group of Schools. "The new system of grading was generally welcomed by parents and students and results were on par with last year, though some feel they could have scored better," he added.

This postmaster climbs a hill to deliver pension

SREEMATHI M @Tirunelveli

ONE Sunday every month, a 55-year-old post master embarks on a day-long trek deep into the Kalakkad Mundanthurai Tiger Reserve forest to fulfil an assurance made to a 110-year-old woman five months ago.

S Christuraja, of the Papanasam Upper Dam Branch, received this special mission after Collector V Vishnu visited the Injikuzhi tribal hamlet at the Tiger Reserve and met 110-year-old Kuttiyammal. The Collector assured the elderly woman of a monthly Old Age Pension of ₹1,000, and directed the authorities to deliver her the money through the India Post office.

As Christuraja single-handedly manages the Branch post office, it came down to him to ensure Kuttiyammal received her pension.

Postmaster Christuraja travels about 15 km to deliver pension to a 110-year-old | V KARTHIKALAGU

The Injikuzhi tribal hamlet is located uphill of Chinnamayilar Kaani near the Papanasam dam.

"I take a four kilometre boat ride across the dam's banks, organised by forest officials, and then trek nearly 10 kilometres after that," Christuraja says. When the level of water in the dam is too low for a boat ride, he treks 25 kilometres via the Chinnamayilar Kaani, braving leech bites.

Since the journey takes a day, the post master makes the delivery on Sundays only. "I start at 7 am and trek to a stream in the forest. After having breakfast by the stream, I reach the temple next to the hamlet and bathe in the river before reaching Kuttiyammal's house," he explains.

After a chat with Kuttiyammal, he returns to catch the boat back by 5 pm.

Christuraja, who joined service on May 19, 1997 as an Extra Departmental Delivery Agent, is a native of the Agasthiyar Kaani settlement in the forest. This gives him an edge, according to Senior Superintendent of Post Office, Tirunelveli Division, Sivaji Ganesh.

"Christuraja is able to work with the people and reach the hamlet. Earlier, postal staff used to arm themselves before visiting such remote areas," said Ganesh.

As for Kuttiyammal, her relative Iyyappan (40) says that access to the pension has given the supercentenarian priceless peace of mind.

"Among laymen, one frequently faces the prejudice that psychotherapy is easy and consists in the art of putting something over on people or wheedling money out of them. But actually it is a tricky and not undangerous calling

SOME GREEN SHOOTS AT LAST AS COVID RESTRICTIONS ABATE

With the second wave of the pandemic abating in most parts of the country and state governments lifting restrictions in phases, there are welcome signs of economic rejuvenation. Gross Goods and Services Tax (GST) collections showed a massive 33% uptick for July, compared to the same month last year, and about a 25% increase from the previous month of June. July's GST collection at ₹1,16,393 crore, reported by the Union finance ministry, has pierced the psychological barrier of ₹1 lakh crore and is a reflection of increased business and consumer activity. Simultaneously, car sales—an important bellwether of consumer sentiment—have also shown sizeable growth for most manufacturers. The sales of Maruti Suzuki, the largest of passenger car makers, were up nearly 37% at 1.33 lakh units compared to July 2020. Hyundai too registered a 26% growth with over 48,000 cars sold this July.

It may not be fair to compare sales to July of last year, which was probably the peak of the first pandemic wave; but the fact is pent-up demand has now begun to show. That consumers will only postpone their needs for some time is evident from FMCG company Hindustan Unilever's financials. It reported a rise in net profit of 9.5% to ₹2,061 crore as well as an increase in revenue of 13% to ₹11,915 crore for the current year's April-June period, when Covid infections and fatalities were the highest.

Lessons have been learnt since the first pandemic wave. Both the severity of restrictions and the steps for relaxing them have been left to local authorities and the conditions prevailing in each region. The overbearing central curfews have given way to more rational phase-wise responses. Opening of markets, malls, public transport services and construction work due to the improvement in the Covid situation has allowed businesses to crank up again. The biggest booster is the collective sentiment that favours resumption of normal business activity. One only hopes that the third wave, if and when it comes, will be muted so that the current trajectory can continue.

CHANGE APPROACH TO MENTAL ILLNESS

Recently, the National Health Mission and Greater Chennai Corporation joined forces to 'rescue' homeless persons with mental illness in the city with the aim of treating and rehabilitating them. News of the plan immediately raised concerns among activists as the civic body had embarked on a similar drive during the previous DMK regime in 2010. At the time, over 150 people who appeared homeless were rounded up and taken to a state hospital, screened for mental illness and allegedly forcibly detained. This time, the rescue efforts initiated showed that institutions had evolved somewhat. Mental health professionals were part of the process and the consent of the individuals was respected—to an extent.

However, one-off attempts of this sort are problematic given that the needs of this vulnerable population are complex. Mental illness in itself cannot be seen purely from a medical perspective—environmental, economical and sociological factors all play a role. States cannot adopt a one-size-fits-all approach. Tamil Nadu acknowledges this and runs, in partnership with NGOs, Emergency Rescue and Crisis Centres at the district level. The understanding is that if interventions were widely available, a person with mental illness might be less likely to end up on the streets. However, alongside that, sustained effort and engagement is required to reach out to people already on the streets rather than having them moved into institutions, temporary or otherwise. For this, the state must change its paternalistic view of persons with mental illness and adopt a rights-based approach as envisaged by the Mental Health Act of 2017. It stresses the need for informed consent and says that treatment must be provided in a setting that least infringes on a person's rights.

In 2008, after a similar drive in Kanniyakumari resulted in a French national (with no mental illness) being certified and detained in the Institute of Mental Health, the Madras High Court said: "The police should not 'round up' people as if they were stray cattle and deal with them as such. Each individual should be dealt with as a separate case, he/she shall be treated as a human being with all constitutional rights." About 13 years later, there is clearly a long way to go.

In a country with an ever-rising mental health burden, it is important we seek appropriate help from the right person at the right time with realistic expectations

UNDERSTANDING THE WHAT, WHEN & HOW OF PSYCHOTHERAPY

DR DEBANJAN BANERJEE
Psychiatrist, NIMHANS, Bengaluru

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Even though psychiatric and psychological services have developed over the recent years, people still have a lot of confusion about the process of counselling. This leads to a delay in seeking help, lack of service utilisation, myths and misinformation about what counselling is and an abundance of quacks who claim to be qualified counsellors.

The terms counsellor and psychotherapist are often used interchangeably and have many similarities, but there are some important differences as well. In general, counselling is recommended for milder situations (like job stress), is solution-focused and may take place over a brief period of time. Psychotherapy, in contrast, tends to explore past issues or present thoughts/beliefs that might be contributing to more severe problems (like job stress due to depression). It is based on certain structured modules and theories. Also, psychotherapy involves the usage of specific techniques to deal with negative thoughts and unhealthy action patterns in an individual. At times, it includes certain psychological assessments of personality, intelligence, thought patterns, etc., that may guide therapy.

In actual practice, however, there is a great deal of overlap between the two. While the same therapist may provide both counselling and psychotherapy, the latter generally requires specific skills, training and certification. While a psychotherapist is qualified to provide counselling, a counsellor may or may not possess the necessary training and skills to provide psychotherapy. It is usually provided by trained clinical psychologists who need to possess a Masters in Philosophy (M.Phil.) degree and need to be licensed with the Rehabilitation Council of India. Even though there have been several designations common in social media platforms these days like life coaches, life trainers, healers, psychological motivators, etc., they can only practice therapy if trained and licensed. They may be experts in their respective fields, but blurring the boundary between clinical psychological work and lay counselling is confusing to patients and harmful to mental health. Unfortunately, the ambiguity continues in our country in the absence of strict regulation and monitoring.

Psychotherapy or counselling depends on the development of a healing, trustworthy, safe and therapeutic relationship between a therapist and an individual. The main goal is to understand a person's or couple's (in case of couple/family therapy) feelings, behaviours and thought processes, eventually addressing the problematic issues with the goal of improving a person's life. It can involve multiple techniques based on the psychiatric problem that a person is undergoing (e.g. depression, social anxiety, personality disorders, phobia, etc.). A common technique is Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT), which involves a therapeutic collaboration over time-limited sessions with a fixed agenda to modify certain disturbing thoughts and beliefs in the patient that lead to change in his/her behaviours. However, CBT is not the only form of therapy. It is important to understand that psychotherapy is not an endless and non-specific undertaking. At the very beginning of any therapy session, a predetermined plan is made in discussion with the client that forms part of what we call a therapeutic contract. In most cases, this determines how the remaining sessions will follow through. Each session typically lasts for 45-60 minutes and usually the duration is once per week.

Psychotherapy is a process, not a one-session magic. ... Change takes time to develop and sometimes gains are gradual. At times, it depends on the involvement of caregivers, social support and other environmental factors as well

Therapy is not a class or lecture session. It is true that at some point, the therapist only listens to the client but that does not make him/her passive. It's like the tension in the rope pulled equally at both ends. If it isn't nearing 100% commitment from both sides, it isn't going to work. For therapy sessions to be useful, the client needs to be equally participative, receptive and collaborative. The therapist cannot induce any change forcefully. Mutual trust and commitment determine the success of the process.

Psychotherapy is a process, not a one-session magic. Unlike medicines that act on their own once you take them, therapy depends on live human interaction and dynamics. Change takes time to develop and sometimes gains are gradual. At times, it depends on the involvement of caregivers, social support and other environmental factors as well. It is common to see patients dropping out after only a few sessions, expecting a drastic relief in their mood. This is unrealistic as the first few sessions are dedicated mostly to building rapport between the therapist and the client.

Counselling and psychotherapy are both complementary and not substitutes for medicines. While some problems respond to the former alone, others may need a combination of both. The decision is best left to the mental health professional. Severe depression, anxiety, obsessive-compulsive disorders, addiction problems, etc., often need both of these for adequate treatment. Decades of research across the world has shown that psychotherapy is not only as effective as medicines if administered appropriately, but also works in children and older people alike. Couple relationships, sexual problems and family discord can also be helped by psychotherapy in multiple ways. The goals of therapy vary and evolve throughout the sessions.

In a country with an ever-rising mental health burden, it is important we seek appropriate help from the right person at the right time with realistic expectations. Psychotherapy is not meant to make you happy but to guide you through your problems in a constructive way. To quote Carl Jung, the legendary psychoanalyst, "The principle aim of psychotherapy is not to transport one to an impossible state of happiness, but to help the client acquire steadfastness and patience in the face of suffering."

HOW WERE TEMPLE THEFTS DEALT WITH IN CHOLA ERA?

MADHUSUDHANAN KALAICHELVAN
Architect, serves on government-instituted panel for conservation of temples in TN

The temptation to lay hands on unguarded possessions of temples are as old as the abodes of the Gods themselves. So how was the crime dealt with in the past?

The ancient Indian system of law was structured around the concept of dharma. Regardless of who the convict was, if proven guilty, punishments were severe. Want and greed have at times driven even supposed noblemen to resort to embezzling. In a few instances of temple burglary, the culprits were even the temple administrators and/or the priests themselves—so record temple inscriptions. But none was beyond the law in the eyes of dharma. Confiscation of the property of an offender seems to have been a popular punishment for those who thieved in temples. Moreover, misappropriation of temple funds and properties landed the title of 'traitor' on an individual. Here are some of the abominable temple burglaries recorded over time.

Pandanainallur, a padal petra sthalam near Thanjavur, has a grand temple complex dedicated to Siva as Pasupateeshwara. The inscriptions found here record a series of thefts that took place in the temple in 1152 CE, the sixth regnal year of Chola King Rajaraja II. The succession of burglaries being a serious matter, a special committee was set up under royal orders to undertake a thorough investigation. It is interesting to note that this committee comprised religious leaders, scholars and practicing Saivites among others. The temple priests serving the deity were among the accused. Proven guilty, they were sacked from duty with immediate effect and banished thereon from serving in temples. Incidentally, rental defaulters occupying temple land were also tried and punished in the same trial. The inscription even documents the family details of the priests and their individual names.

One noteworthy trial stands out as the case was quite unusually heard and the judgment pronounced by none other than the ruling monarch himself. Thirunakeshwaram, a padal petra sthalam near Kumbakonam, was highly patronised by the Chola King Rajaraja III. During his time, the temple accounts were handled by three officials, two of them brothers. The temple inscriptions capture in detail how these three failed their moral code of conduct: misusing temple funds, stealing silk garments offered to the deity and using bricks from the temple to extend their residences. The severity of the offence demanded investigation by higher officials of the government, and Pillai Yadavaraya was assigned the same. It so happened that Rajaraja III was camping near the temple. Burglary in a temple close to his heart must have made him intervene in the trial. With convincing proof against the accused, the king pronounced that the properties of the guilty be seized and sold in auction; the 40,000 kaasu thus earned was deposited with the temple. The inscription further records that the now-vacant post of accounting officer was then 'sold' to an able individual for 3,000 kaasu, which again was handed to the temple.

It was not always cash and jewels. Produce from the temple fields too were misappropriated, and culprits dealt with similar severity. An inscription in the Siva temple of Govindhaputhur from the sixteenth regional year of Kulothunga Chola III (1194 CE) narrates how a land donated to the temple to grow areca palm trees was misappropriated by a certain Paluvur Andan, the manager of the temple. He felled the trees, sold them and shared the profit with his relatives. Donations collected for the temple were also not accounted for and when an enquiry was set up, he disappeared from his residence. His house was however searched by the officials and 40 measures of paddy and vessels from the temple were discovered. The accused was proven guilty but managed to escape; so, the authorities confiscated his properties and demolished his residence. In the place where his house stood, a temple for Vinayaka was built and the deity was named Kulothunga Chola Vinayaka Pillaiyar.

One noteworthy trial stands out as the judgment was pronounced by the ruling monarch himself. Thirunakeshwaram, a padal petra sthalam near Kumbakonam was highly patronised by the Chola King Rajaraja III. Burglary in a temple close to his heart must have made him intervene in the trial

One more interesting inscription from the 35th regnal year of Kulothunga III (1213 CE) is from the popular Siva temple at Tirukazhukundram (near Chennai). A certain Periyan had managed to pilfer the jewel that adorns the forehead of the deity. Unfortunately for him, he was caught at once by the guard on duty. Enquiry revealed that the forefathers of Periyan had instituted many endowments to benefit social and religious causes. Notwithstanding that, the accused was tried and brought to account. His property was confiscated and he was forcefully vacated from his residence in the western quarters of the temple. He was labelled a traitor. His properties were sold off to a certain Palaravayan alias Anantha Devan from Mylapore and the proceeds were used to construct a hundred-pillared hall in the temple premises at Tirukazhukundram.

Turn the clock a few centuries to the Vijayanagara period and to another theft in the same temple. This was in the times of Veera Kampanna Udaiyar and there was again a burglary in the stone coffers of the temple. The suspects were temple administration officials and a priest; they had managed to break open the stone vault, steal the jewels of the deity, and lock and seal the vaults back. A few of the suspects had escaped and the priest was initially not doubted. However, when quite unexpectedly the case was reopened, the bewildered priest confessed to his role in the crime and gave in writing the events of the burglary. As the tradition was, the properties of the convicts were confiscated and declared as temple property. Since the convicts managed to escape, their kith and kin were punished by confiscation of family property. As for the temple priest, apart from confiscation of property, his sixteen-and-a-half day of rights to perform pooja in the temple were also nullified and distributed among other priests who were already serving the deity. A record that speaks about a once-forgotten case, reopened to ensure justice prevails, indeed proves the power of dharma.

As the fulcrum of any settlement, temples were bestowed with enormous amounts of properties, cash and gold. Human greed occasionally surfaced, showing its ugly face even among the temple administrators and priests. However, an easily approachable legal system, with stringent punishments based on dharma, never failed to uphold justice. What could be more humiliating than getting one's name recorded on stone as a convict who burgled temples?

Rethink urbanisation

Waterlogging has become a big issue these days, unlike say around two decades ago when rainy days could be enjoyed. Things have now changed due to shoddy town planning that has blocked water pathways. This has been seen in the national capital recently, in Odisha's capital some time ago and has even spread to towns. The time has come to stop encroachment and rethink urbanisation and development.

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday termed the Opposition undemocratic for disrupting proceedings in the two Houses of the Parliament. He also came down heavily on the Opposition MPs for "insulting the rules and procedures of the Parliament".

Speaking to BJP MPs during the party's weekly Parliamentary meeting, the Prime Minister talked at length about "the negative approach of the Opposition" in disrupting the ongoing monsoon session of Parliament in both Houses.

Incidentally, this session has been highlighted by an unending ruckus over the Pegasus snooping issue, with both the government and the Opposition hardening their stance.

In an apparent reference to claims by some of the MPs who have taken to social media to slam the passage of legislative proposals by the two Houses, the Prime Minister told the BJP MPs that such statements are an insult to the procedures of the Parliament.

While a TMC member in Rajya Sabha had torn the statement of IT Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw on the Pegasus issue, several Opposition members had torn papers in Lok Sabha and threw it in the air.

Union Minister for Parliamentary Affairs Prahlad Joshi, while speaking to reporters, said the Prime Minister has asked MPs to exercise restraint in the face of provocations by the Opposition parties.

Union Minister for Finance Nirmala Sitharaman is also learnt to have nade a presentation to the BJP MPs on the state of the economy. She argued that the economy has not been affected by the second wave of the Covid-19 pandemic. She is also learnt to have given the account of measures taken by the government for various sector to address their concerns during the pandemic.

Two more bills passed amid LS chaos

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

WITH ruckus prevailing in Lok Sabha, the government continues getting the nod of the Lower House for legislative bills in record speed. With microphones of the Opposition MPs switched off even if they speak, the government had no problem in getting the House to approve the bills in minutes without any discussion.

For a brief period when his microphone was on, leader of Congress in Lok Sabha, Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury slammed the government for the "murder of democracy" by getting the bills passed without discussions in the House. He alleged that the government had not made any serious effort to end the impasse in the Parliament.

The Lok Sabha on Tuesday passed two Bills — The Essential Defence Services Bill, 2021 and The Tribunal Reforms (Amendment) Bill, 2021. There was no discussion on either of the proposals, with Opposition MPs surrounding the Chair with placards in support of their demands for discussion on the Pegasus issue.

A number of amendments moved by the Opposition MPs, including NK Premchandran of the RSP, were rejected by the lower House by voice vote while taking up the passage of the Tribunal Amendment Bill. Opposition MPs were heard shouting that the legislation concerned the judiciary and it should be properly discussed.

Later, Congress MP Manish Tewari alleged that the demand for the division of votes during the process of the passage of the tribunal bill was ignored against the laid down norms.

"What happened at 4 PM in the Lok Sabha was daylight murder of democracy. Opposition wanted a division on the Tribunal Bill, for it encroaches on the domain of judiciary. It's the right of every member to ask for a vote. The demand was not heeded and the important legislation was passed in the din," alleged Tewari.

Editors Guild of India approaches SC seeking SIT probe on Pegasus

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Editors Guild of India has approached the Supreme Court seeking probe by a Special Investigation Team (SIT) into the Pegasus snooping controversy.

The plea also sought directions to be issued to the Central government to produce details of contracts entered into with foreign companies for deploying spyware for surveillance and the persons against whom such spyware was used.

The petition sought information on the interception, monitoring and decryption through spyware, hacking or electronic surveillance in India between 2017 and 2021. It made seven specific demands, including information on whether the Central government or any of its agencies procure, license, obtain and/or use Pegasus; details on how these spywares were paid; list of people who have been under surveillance.

The petition challenged the constitutional validity of electronic surveillance, hacking and use of spyware, and the existing legal architecture for surveillance. "Citizens of India have a right to know if the executive government is infringing the limits of their authority under the Constitution and what steps have been taken to safeguard their fundamental rights," it was submitted.

The petition took specific exception to journalists targeted using the spyware, stating that freedom of the press relies on non-interference by the government and its agencies.

This would be the fourth PIL filed before Supreme Court in relation to the controversy. Those petitions are slated for hearing on Thursday.

No one went hungry during Covid, says Prime Minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

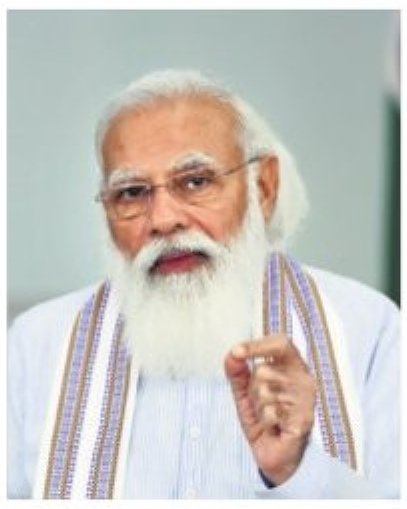
CLAIMING that no citizen went hungry during the Covid-19 pandemic, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday said India is rapidly moving towards the milestone of 50 crore vaccinations, while stressing that the empowerment of the poor is the top priority of the government.

Stating that the world has been taking note of the Garib Kalyan Yojna, the Prime Minister said that 80 crore people are getting double ration, the free grains in addition to the National Food Security Act. He said that the government is spending ₹2 lakh crore in implementing the scheme.

"There used to be such schemes in the past with increasing budgetary allocations. But hunger and malnutrition was never addressed. One former Prime Minister had also remarked that ₹1 sent from New Delhi actually translated to 15 paisa in the hands of the beneficiaries. We made the difference by effective delivery of the scheme," said the Prime Minister, while addressing beneficiaries of the PM Garib Kalyan Yojna from different parts of Gujarat through video conference.

"After Independence, almost every government talked about providing cheap food to the poor. The scope and budget of ration schemes increased year after year, but the effect it should have had remained limited. The country's food stocks kept increasing, but starvation and malnutrition did not decrease in that proportion. One reason for this was the lack of an effective delivery system. To change this situation, work was started afresh after 2014," said the Prime Minister, adding that the use of technology helped in weeding out fake beneficiaries and ration cards were linked to Aadhar cards.

He praised the Gujarat government for taking care of the migrant labourers, fulfilling the purpose of "One Nation One Ration Card initiative".



'Confidence of Indian athletes at a peak'

The Prime Minister lauded India's athletes for giving their best at the Olympics. "Our players haven't just qualified, they are giving their best performance too. Our players and teams are giving a tough fight to their competitors with better rankings. The conviction and confidence of Indian players are at a peak." Modi said that the Indian players are showing this confidence because of transparency in the selection system and proper identification of talent.

THE Indian Olympic contingent will be invited to Red Fort on Independence Day. Prime Minister Narendra Modi will also host them over dinner at his residence on that day.

The Prime Minister spoke highly of the Indians taking part in the Tokyo Olympics during his address to beneficiaries of the Garib Kalyan Yojna on Tuesday through video conference. He remarked that Indian sportspersons have been putting up spirited performances at the Games in Tokyo. The Prime Minister added that the performance of Indian sportspersons symbolise the new confidence of India.

"This confidence is now becoming the identity of new India in which talents of sportspersons are recognised and provided with adequate facilities for their training," added the Prime Minister.

The Prime Minister, said a senior official, will also be personally interacting with each of the sportspersons taking part in the Tokyo Olympics. He had a brief interaction with the athletes before they flew out for Tokyo.

The Prime Minister said that the achievements of the Indian athletes was special because it came when the country was grappling with the Covid-19 pandemic. "The achievements of the sportspersons in the Olympics has come at a time when India is dealing with the Covid-19 pandemic, a once in a century challenge for the country. There are events in the Tokyo Olympics for which India qualified for the first time also," added the Prime Minister.

Indians have secured three medals at the Games so far.

PSU LIKELY TO START VACCINE PRODUCTION IN SEPT: GOVT

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

HYDERABAD-BASED public sector undertaking Indian Immunological Limited (IIL) may start supplying 2 million doses of Covaxin — the country's only fully indigenously developed Covid-19 vaccine — by September, government authorities said on Tuesday.

VK Paul, head of the national Covid-19 task force, said two other undertakings the government has tied up with for Covaxin production will take time to start manufacturing. These PSUs include BIBCOL under the ministry and Haffkine Institute under the Maharashtra government.

He added that Bharat Biotech's Ankleshwar facility could add another 6 million Covaxin doses in days to come. "Covaxin production capacity will increase. We expect a quantum jump after the Bangalore facility (of Bharat Biotech) starts," said Paul.

Paul said that there has been a delay because of standardisation issues, quality, efficient flow and validation. "Some hiccups can occur. But an additional facility in Ankaleshwar has started. We'll get 6 million doses. The PSUs, to an extent from IIL, we'll get 2 million doses by later in August or September.

Paul added that at Haffkine and BIBCOL, substantial infrastructure is needed. "We might need to wait until November-December for activation of those PSUs."

Earlier in the day, Health Minister Mansukh Mandaviya informed Parliament that the monthly production capacity of Covaxin is expected to increase to around 58 million doses by December.

"As communicated by the manufacturers, the monthly vaccine production capacity of Covishield is projected to be increased from 110 million doses per month to more than 120 million doses, and the production capacity of Covaxin is projected to be increased from 25 million doses per month to around 58 million doses per month," the minister said in a reply in Rajya Sabha.

Low supply of Covaxin has remained a constant concern despite claims by the government earlier that nearly 10 crore doses of this vaccine may be produced from September, which will help it meet the target of vaccinating the entire adult population of the country by 2021.

Taliban resurgence will have repercussions beyond region: EAM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Tuesday said the resurgence of Taliban in Afghanistan and the US withdrawal of troops will impact the region and other places.

"The transition in Afghanistan we are seeing and warfare that's being forced upon its people, have sharpened the challenge of terrorism. Left unattended, its edge will be deeply felt not just in Afghanistan neighbourhoods but beyond," Jaishankar said at the inaugural address of the BRICS Academic Forum.

Jaishankar said legitimacy cannot be derived from brutality or covert agendas. "For any group to gain legitimacy, it cannot resort to mass brutality upon the country's citizens. Representation of peace and stability are inextricably linked."

The external affairs minister's remarks came on a day reports emerged that the Taliban is handing over weapons to locals after it lost fighters, while the Afghan army has urged villagers to evacuate to prepare for a major offensive against the militants.

Since the US-led foreign forces started the last phase of their withdrawal in early May, the Taliban have been advancing in the country and have managed to take under control much of rural Afghanistan.

Jaishankar also spoke on the pandemic as well as BRICS and said that the pandemic has rudely reminded us that institutions of the 1940s desperately need to be upgraded. "The expansion of permanent membership of the Security Council (UNSC) is a necessary ingredient, but not sufficient. More action is required to fill the gaps," he added.

Gehlot opposes reshuffle, wants bigger Cabinet

Instead of dropping sitting ministers, CM wants to add fresh faces from Pilot's camp

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

AICC's troubleshooter-in-chief D K Shivakumar landed in Jaipur on Tuesday to iron out the wrinkles in the Cabinet reshuffle in Rajasthan. Sources said that the reshuffle slated for August 5 is likely to get delayed as Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot is reluctant to induct Sachin Pilot supporters into the Cabinet at the expense of MLAs, who helped him blunt the Congress former state unit chief's rebellion in 2019.

Sources said Shivakumar held a meeting with gehlot and in the evening left for Delhi. He is likely to apprise the high command of the situation in Rajasthan on Wednesday. With several rounds of discussions continuing between both the camps, the rejig of the Gehlot cabinet is likely to take a little longer.

Karnataka Congress chief Shivakumar's visit follows Kumari Selja's brief trip to Jaipur over the weekend. It was during Selja's visit that speculation on problems surrounding the reshuffle started emerging.

Amid demand for plum posts by Sachin Pilot supporters, sources said Gehlot was not ready to reconstitute the Cabinet, but expand it. Instead of dropping any of his existing ministers, Gehlot wants to add new faces from the Pilot camp at a time when the high command wants to sack the nonperfomers.

Breaking this impasse would be the main agenda in Shivakumar's meeting with Gehlot, sources said. However, Shivkumar refused to give details on his visit, saying it was a personal trip.

Congress insiders say that Gehlot is agreeable to taking three ministers from the Pilot camp, but there is a dispute over who those three should be. Recently, AICC General secretary K C Venugopal and state in-charge Ajay Maken had come to resolve this dispute, but were unsuccessful. Shivakumar in expected to come up with a new formula to break the impasse, Congress insiders said.

Meanwhile, Gehlot loyalist Shanti Dhariwal, considered the number-two in the Cabinet, said: "Who is making changes in Rajasthan? The only thing that counts here is the view of Ashok Gehlot."

The statement was widely viewed as the indication of Gehlot loyalists strongly resisting a wide-ranging reshuffle. Sources said that the MLAs support Gehlot's stand that there should not be any reshuffle but only an expansion.

Rahul-Raut Delhi meet gives Uddhav a breather

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

FORMER Congress president Rahul Gandhi and Shiv Sena leader Sanjay Raut sought to dispel reports of widening rift between the constituents of the Maha Vikas Aghadi through a show of bonhomie in Delhi on Tuesday. Sources said that Gandhi allayed fears of any breakup in Maharashtra and assured to visit the state, which has been off his itinerary ever since the MVA took office.

Raut told reporters this was the first of many meeting lined up for future to strengthen relations between the constituents of the MVA. "He was keen on understanding the Maharashtra politics. We had a candid discussion on various issues. He was curious about Sena supremo Balasaheb Thackeray's personality and working style. He enquired about how Balasaheb expanded and strengthened his party base," Raut added.

Highly-placed sources in Congress said that Rahul Gandhi had opposed the party's tie-up with Sena, owing to its professed Hindutva leanings and past relations with the BJP. "He agreed to the alliance after the party leaders convinced him that such tie-ups were necessary to keep BJP at bay. Though he did not want to compromise on the secular ideals of Congress, he bowed down to the party pressure," sources said.

With Nana Patole, the new Maharashtra Congress chief, making noises about going it alone in future, there was a looming threat of Congress pulling the plug on the Thackeray government.

Source in Shiv Sena said the Gandhi family members are open and candid, but reaching them is an issue. "Earlier, Ahmed Patel was the pointsperson, then it was Rajeev Satav. With both passing away, there is no link. Raut and Rahul's comfort with each other is a good sign for MVA," he added.

SAD-BSP poll charter heavy on populism

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

SLASHING diesel prices by ₹10 a litre for farmers and offering ₹2,000 a month to women blue card holders are the salient promises in a 13-point charter released by Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) president Sukhbir Singh Badal on Tuesday. SAD and BSP have forged a pre-poll alliance for the 2022 Assembly polls.

The joint charter assures power at ₹5 per unit for industries, interest-free loan of ₹10 lakh to students and says 75% jobs would be reserved for Punjab youth in the private sector. The slew of initiatives, covering all sections of the society, also include free power up to 400 units a month to all households and doing away with the outstanding residential bills of all blue card holders. All connections of BPL families -- disconnected due to nonpayment of bills -- will be restored.

Sukhbir also announced a health insurance cover of ₹10 lakh per annum to cover treatment, medicine, diagnostic test, surgery and medical equipment cost at all public and private hospitals.

Speaking about the initiatives planned for the agricultural sector, Badal said legislation would be passed in the state assembly to ensure that the three agriculture laws were not implemented in Punjab. He said the government would introduce MSP for fruits and vegetables and pay the differential in case of reduction in prices to farmers.

Stating that the next SAD-BSP government would prioritize health and education, Sukhbir said 500 bed Government Medical Colleges with super-specialty facilities would be established in every district. He also announced a 33% reservation for students passing from government schools at all colleges.

Buzz as Rajbhar calls on UP BJP leaders

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

WITH UP Assembly elections just six months away, a realignment of forces on state's political turf is palpable. Suheldev Bharatiya Samaj Party (SBSP) chief andformer minister in Yogi Adityanath government Om Prakash Rajbhar on Tuesday set tongues wagging by calling on state BJP chief Swatantra Deo Singh at latter's residence.

Rajbhar was accompanied by BJP state vice-resident Dayashankar Singh for a meeting that lasted for about an hour. Rajbhar has been a BJP baiter ever since parting ways; he was forced to resign from the Yogi cabinet due to differences with the BJP brass over seat sharing in 2019 election. Coming out of the meeting on Tuesday, Rajbhar, who has been vowing to trounce the BJP by joining forces with AIMIM chief Asaduddin Owaisi, called his meeting with the BJP UP chief a 'courtesy call' but left the field open for speculation by claiming that anything was possible in politics. "Two big leaders can also hold a personal meeting. When Mamata Banerjee and Sonia Gandhi can meet, when Mayawati and Akhilesh can meet, anything is possible in politics," said the SBSP chief.

Om Prakash Rajbhar has also been in touch with Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav and his uncle and PSPL chief Shivpal Singh Yadav. He even met Aam Aadmi Party leader Sanjay Singh recently.

The SBSP chief has been claiming that he was cobbling together a front of small parties under the umbrella of Bhagidari Sankalp Morcha for the 2022 Assembly elections in UP. However, political experts believe that Rajbhar is trying his luck everywhere and might swing to the side which offers him the maximum benefit.

Now, Lalu gets active, sends feelers to Chirag

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

A day after meeting Mulayam Singh Yadav in Delhi, RJD chief Lalu Prasad Yadav on Tuesday indicated he might return to active politics soon. Lalu, who is currently out on bail, sought to corner his former ally and Chief Minister Nitish Kumar by endorsing Chirag Paswan as the leader of the LJP.

Sources said that his support for Chirag Paswan is an invitation for the embattled LJP leader to join forces with Tejashwi Yadav.

"Despite what happened in LJP, Chirag is the party's leader party. There is a mobilisation in support of Chirag," Lalu said.

Lashing out at Nitish, Lalu said: "He came to power by dishonesty. But Tejashwi Yadav fought against him bravely. The NDA has come to power by dishonesty," he said.

However, Lalu supported Nitish's stand on caste census and the demand for a probe into the Pegasus scandal. "Truth should come out," he said, adding that RJD would intensifying the movement for caste census. Meanwhile, BJP MP (RS) Sushil Kumar Modi accused Lalu Prasad Yadav of playing politics despite being out on bail in fodder scam.

Later in the day, Chirag Paswan met the Governor in Patna and submitted a memorandum over deteriorating law and order situation in Bihar. Thanking Lalu for supporting him, Chirag said, "He is one of the contemporaries of my father in politics and a fatherly figure to me. I thank him for whatever he has said about me."

Olympian's tribal family can now watch her play on TV

MUKESH RANJAN @Ranchi

WHEN India takes on Argentina in the Olympics Hockey semi-finals in Tokyo on Wednesday, eyes of 40-odd families at Badkichapar in Simdega, Jharkhand, would be glued to the first television set the village got on Tuesday to cheer their daughter Salima Tete, who would be taking the field in the marquee event.

The District Administration installed the first TV set in Badkichapar after The New Indian Express reported the inability of the villagers to watch Salima in action due to lack of a TV set and poor mobile connectivity.

According to District Sports Officer Tushar Roy, a brand new 43-inch smart TV, along with a set top box, was installed Salima's house on Tuesday. Salima's rise is a matter of pride for the district and the state, he added.

Simdega is one of the worst Left Wing Extremism (LWE) affected districts in Jharkhand and Salima's Olympic efforts is viewed as the right push for the younger generation to take up sports to better their lot. According to Salima's younger sister Mahima Tete, who is also a national-level hockey player, "Everyone in the village wanted to see Salima in action, but due to poor internet connectivity it was not possible."

Mahima had made fervent pleas to the officials to help the villagers watch the match.

Mizoram staring at health crisis as goods inflow stops: Minister

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR
@Guwahati

WITH supplies choked due to an economic blockade imposed by organisations in Assam, Mizoram appealed to its citizens to curtail domestic consumption even as a SpiceJet flight dispatched 3,711 kg of cargo to Mizoram from Assam's Silchar. The blockade has been imposed in all three districts of Assam's Barak Valley — Cachar, Karimganj and Hailakandi. They share a 164.6 km border with Mizoram. National Highway 306, which traverses Cachar, is Mizoram's lifeline.

The Mizoram government said people had been advised to reduce domestic consumption in anticipation of the continuance of the problem. "Given the blockade and the fact that railway lines have been destroyed (in Hailakandi by the miscreants), there will certainly be some difficulties in getting essential and non-essential commodities in the coming days. Under the circumstances and in anticipation of the problem, we have requested the people of the state not to hoard essential items and curtail domestic consumption. If we curtail it by a bit, then there will be enough for all for a longer time," Mizoram's Department of Food, Civil Supplies & Consumer Affairs Director Ramdinliani told this newspaper.

She said although essential commodities were being brought from Tripura, the volumes of are much less compared to what used to come before via Assam.

Mizoram Health Minister R Lalthangliana urged Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah to rescue the state from an impending health crisis. "Mizoram is under a serious crisis due to a blockade created by the Assam government. This has severely affected the availability of medicines required by patients who are in critical conditions and by those severely affected with Covid-19," he said.

HC sore over FIR delay; CBI probe today

MUKESH RANJAN @Ranchi

AFTER hauling the SIT over the coals for a delay in registering an FIR into the hit-and-run death of Dhanbad additional judge Uttam Anand, the Jharkhand High Court on Tuesday ordered the CBI to immediately take over the probe to rule out any possibility of tampering with evidence. The court also ordered the SIT to provide all documents and logistics support to the CBI. The CBI counsel informed the court the premier agency would take over the probe by Wednesday.

Expressing displeasure over SIT's status report, the court asked, "The incident took place at 5:08 am, then why FIR was lodged at 12:45 pm?"

Later, the Court directed DGP Neeraj Sinha to provide security to the judicial officers in Dhanbad. Later, talking to the media, Dhanbad SSP Sanjeev Kumar said the permission for conducting four tests, including brain mapping and narco-tests, on two accused has been granted by the court.

On the question of interrogation of the family members of former MLA Sanjeev Singh's close aide Ranjay Singh, who was recently killed and whose case was pending in the court of Uttam Anand, the SSP said various teams were probing into all angles.

Turncoats turn vociferous with unsavoury remark

If reports from the BJP circles are to be believed, vociferous turncoats are making the established leaders uncomfortable, while alienating the masses. Earlier, BJP MLC Gopinath Padalkar was in news for his statements against NCP chief Sharad Pawar. Now, Union minister Narayan Rane's sons are targeting Sanjay Raut and Aditya Thackeray. Another turncoat, MLC Prasad Lad went one step ahead and threatened to blow up Shiv Sena Bhavan at Dadar. Earlier, such threats were confined to terrorist outfits

Maha RERA chief's murky land deals raise eyebrows

Questions are being raised about the ethicality of Ajoy Mehta continuing as the chairman of Maharashtra Real Estate Regulatory Authority (RERA) – a body to redress the grievances and disputes of buyers and developers – when he is being probed for real estate irregularities. Recently, the Enforcement Directorate (ED) served a notice on Mehta, who was formerly the principal advisor to Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray. The ED seeks to get to the bottom of a ₹5.33 crore 1,076 sq-ft apartment at Nariman Point purchase made by Mehta allegedly through a shell company linked to a Pune-based developer. Recently, Mehta's son, too, bought a 750 sq-ft flat at Prabhadevi for ₹2.86 crore days after the Nariman Point deal, days after Mehta senior's deal.

Guv sitting on another list sent by Maha govt

After sitting on a list of 12 names nominated to MLC, Governor Bhagat Singh Koshayari seems to be delaying another. The Raj Bhavan has reportedly not approved a list of names for appointment as Maharashtra Public Service Commission (MPSC) directors. Deputy Chief Minister Ajit Pawar, during the Monsoon session, had promised to fill all vacant posts by July end. No progress has been made so far, leading to the Opposition targeting Pawar for the delay. However, Pawar can seemingly do little until the Governor clear the MPSC directors appointments list.

Seat of power shifts from Matoshree to Varsha

Varsha has seemingly replaced Matoshree as the seat of governance. In earlier days, decisions impacting Maharshtra's future came from Matoshree, but ever since Uddhav assumed the chief ministerial mantle, his official residence Varsha has replaced the former as the hub of political churning. With the Thackerays making Varsha their home, a bevy of leaders make a beeline for Varsha. After Mantralaya, Varsha is the biggest host to political meetings in Maharashtra. Not just politicians, even senior officials make it a point to mark their presence at Varsha, while Matoshree wears a deserted look.

WASHINGTON

AN OFFICER died after being stabbed on Tuesday during a burst of violence at a transit station outside the Pentagon, and a suspect in the incident was shot by law enforcement and died at the scene, officials said.

The Pentagon, the headquarters of the U.S. military, was temporarily placed on lockdown after gunshots were fired Tuesday morning near the entrance of the building, A Pentagon police officer who was stabbed later died, according to officials who were not authorized to discuss the matter and spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity.

More details about the violence were expected at a Pentagon news conference. The connection between the shooting and the stabbing of the officer was not immediately clear. The authorities did not immediately provide details or the sequence of events.

The incident occurred on a Metro bus platform that is part of the Pentagon Transit Center, according to the Pentagon Protection Force Protection Agency. The facility is just steps from the Pentagon building, which is in Arlington County, Virginia, just across the Potomac River from Washington, D.C. An Associated Press reporter near the building heard multiple gunshots, then a pause, then at least one additional shot. Another AP journalist heard police yelling "shooter."

A Pentagon announcement said the facility was on lockdown due to "police activity." The agency responsible for security at the building, the Pentagon Force Protection Agency, tweeted shortly before noon that the scene of the incident was secure.

Pentagon spokesman John Kirby said Secretary of Defense Lloyd Austin was not in the building at the time.

Austin, according to a Pentagon source, was with President Joe Biden in a regularly scheduled meeting.

11-yr-old Indian-American Natasha Peri named one of world's brightest students

WASHINGTON

NATASHA Peri, an 11-year-old Indian-American girl, has been judged as one of the brightest students in the world by a top US university for her exceptional performance in the SAT and ACT standardised tests.

Both the Scholastic Assessment Test (SAT) and American College Testing (ACT) are exams that many colleges use to determine whether to accept a student for admission. In some cases, companies and non-profits also use these scores to award merit-based scholarships. All colleges require students to take either the SAT or the ACT and submit their scores to their prospective universities.

Peri, a student at Thelma L Sandmeier Elementary School in New Jersey, has been honoured for her exceptional performance on the SAT, ACT, or similar assessment taken as part of the Johns Hopkins Center for Talented Youth Talent (VTY) Search, a statement said on Monday.

She was one of nearly 19,000 students from 84 countries who joined CTY in the 2020-21 Talent Search year. CTY uses above-grade-level testing to identify advanced students from around the world and provide a clear picture of their true academic abilities.

Peri took the Johns Hopkins Talent Search test in Spring 2021, when she was in Grade 5. Her results in the verbal and quantitative sections levelled with the 90th percentile of advanced Grade 8 performance. She made the cut for Johns Hopkins CTY 'High Honors Awards'. She was one of the roughly 20% of talent search participants who qualified.

"This motivates me to do more," Peri said, adding that doodling and reading J R R Tolkien's novels may have worked for her.

There are more than 15,500 enrolments in CTY Online Programmes courses each year. In addition, CTY's in-person Summer Programmes for bright students is offered at about 20 sites in the United States and Hong Kong, the statement said. PTI

Taliban advance, take control of southern Afghanistan dists

Afghan security personnel patrol a deserted street in Lashkar Gah on Tuesday | AP

KABUL

THE Taliban pressed ahead with their advances in southern Afghanistan on Tuesday, capturing nine out of 10 districts of the Helmand provincial capital, residents and officials said. Afghan government forces launched airstrikes, backed by the US, in a desperate effort to defend the city of Lashkar Gah.

The fall of Lashkar Gah would be a major turning point in the offensive the Taliban have waged over the past months as US and NATO forces complete their pullout from the country.

It would also be the first provincial capital captured by the Taliban in years.

City residents of the city said the fighting has them trapped, hunkered down inside their homes and unable to step out for basic supplies. They said Taliban fighters were out in the streets, and that all but one Lashkar Gah district was under Taliban control.

Elite commando units were dispatched from Kabul to aid Afghan forces as the government held on to key government buildings, including the local police and army headquarters.

Majid Akhund, deputy chairman of the Helmand provincial council, confirmed the Taliban control nine Lashkar Gah districts and also the city's TV and radio station, which had both gone off the air.

The Afghan forces commander for Helmand, Gen. Sami Sadat, in an audio message shared with journalists Tuesday urged residents in neighborhoods captured by the Taliban to evacuate immediately, though he did not clarify how they could do that amid the ongoing clashes. The message was an indication more airstrikes were planned.

"Please evacuate your families from your homes and their surroundings," Sadat said. "We will not leave the Taliban alive. ... I know it's hard ... we do it for your future. Forgive us if you get displaced for few days, please evacuate as soon as possible."

Lashkar Gah is one of three provincial capitals under siege by the Taliban as they stepped up their onslaught against government forces. AP

Powerful explosion rocks Kabul

Kabul: A powerful explosion rocked an upscale neighbourhood of Afghanistan's capital on Tuesday in an attack that apparently targeted the country's acting defence minister. At least 10 people were wounded, a health official said. Several smaller explosions could be heard as well as small arms fire. It was unclear if the wounded were hurt in the explosion or by gunfire. Details of the attack were sketchy, but it appeared that gunmen had entered the area after the explosion. Defence spokesperson said three attackers were killed by security personnel and a clean-up operation was being conducted by police. All roads have been closed. AP

Mass testing ordered in Wuhan as cases surge

BEIJING

CHINA suspended flights and trains, cancelled professional basketball league games and announced mass coronavirus testing in Wuhan on Tuesday as widening outbreaks of the delta variant reached the city where the disease was first detected in late 2019.

While the total number of cases is still in the hundreds, they are far more widespread than anything China has dealt with since the initial outbreak that devastated Wuhan in early 2020 and over time spread to the rest of the country.

China has not eliminated but largely curbed Covid at home with quick lockdowns and mass testing to isolate infected people whenever new cases pop up. Most previous outbreaks didn't spread far beyond a city or province. This time, cases have been confirmed in more than 35 cities in 17 of China's 33 provinces and regions.

The cities of Nanjing and Yangzhou have canceled all domestic flights, and Beijing has halted long-distance trains from 23 stations.

The Chinese Basketball Association suspended its men's professional league.

Wuhan, a provincial capital of 11 million people in central China, is the latest city to undergo city-wide testing. Three cases were confirmed there on Monday, its first non-imported cases in more than a year.

They were among 90 new cases confirmed nationwide the previous day, the National Health Commission said Tuesday. Of those, 61 were locally spread ones and 29 among people who had recently arrived from abroad.

Most of the local cases are still in Jiangsu province, where an outbreak started at the airport in Nanjing, the provincial capital, and has spread to other parts of he province and beyond. Authorities reported 45 new cases, five in Nanjing and 40 in the city of Yangzhou, 105km away, where a second round of mass testing was underway.

Five other provinces and the cities of Beijing and Shanghai reported new local cases in the single digits. In Shanghai, the nation's largest city, a driver working at one of its two main airports tested positive. Beijing has reported a total of five cases in recent days.

The Nanjing outbreak, which has been traced to the delta variant, is the source of the cases in most other places. Separately, delta variant outbreaks in two other places have been linked to neighboring Myanmar, which has seen a sharp rise in infections. AP

Erdogan faces mounting criticism over wildfires

BOZALAN, TURKEY

AS Turkish fire crews pressed ahead on Tuesday with their weeklong battle against blazes tearing through forests and villages on the country's southern coast, President Recep Tayyip Erdogan's government faced increased criticism over its apparent poor response and inadequate preparedness for large-scale wildfires.

Fed by strong winds and scorching temperatures, the fires that began Wednesday have left eight people dead, forced thousands of residents and tourists to flee homes or vacation resorts in boats or convoys of cars and trucks. Charred and blackened trees have replaced some of the pine-coated hills in Turkey's Turquoise Coast while many villagers lost homes and livestock.

Firefighters on Tuesday were still tackling nine fires in the coastal provinces of Antalya and Mugla that are popular tourist destinations. Other active fires were reported in the provinces of Adana and Isparta. In all, 137 fires that broke out in over 30 provinces since Wednesday have been put out, officials said.

A senior Turkish forestry official described the wildfires as the worst in Turkey in living memory, though he could not say how many acres of forest land the fires had devoured. He also could not estimate how long it would take the crews to put the fires out, saying strong winds were reigniting flames that had previously been brought under control. The official spoke on condition of anonymity in line with government regulations.

As residents lost homes and livestock, anger turned toward the government, which admitted that it did not have a usable firefighting aircraft fleet. Opposition parties accused the government of failing to procure firefighting planes and instead spending money for construction projects that they say harmful the environment.

In the village of Bozalan, in Mugla province, where homes and olive groves were incinerated, residents complained that the government's response was inadequate. AP

Suspending unvaccinated staff allowed

TASHKENT

UZBEKISTAN has passed a law allowing employers to prevent staff from working if they are not vaccinated against the coronavirus, state media reported on Tuesday. The measure comes as Uzbekistan and other countries in the former Soviet region toughen up their vaccination campaigns with the Delta variant of the virus seen driving fresh outbreaks.

Employers in Uzbekistan will be permitted to suspend employees if they refuse to get vaccinated, according to the law signed by President Shavkat Mirziyoyev. Exceptions to the rule are employees who have health conditions that prevent them from receiving the vaccine. AFP

More than 500 stocks on BSE reach 52-week high; investors wealth surge over ₹2 lakh cr in one trading session

ARSHAD KHAN @New Delhi

AFTER months of ups and downs, the Nifty50 finally managed to go past 16,000 mark. Led by heavy weights such as HDFC, Titan and IndusInd, the Nifty hit fresh high of 16,146 on Tuesday and closed the session at 16,130, up 1.55% from previous day's closing. Out of its 50 stock, 44 advanced during the day while 6 ended in red.

It took six months for the Nifty to add 1,000 points even as it rallied from 11,000 to 15,000 in just six month. The 50-stock index had touched the 15,000 mark on February 5th, but challenges such as rising second Covid-19 wave and weak global cues kept the bulls under control.

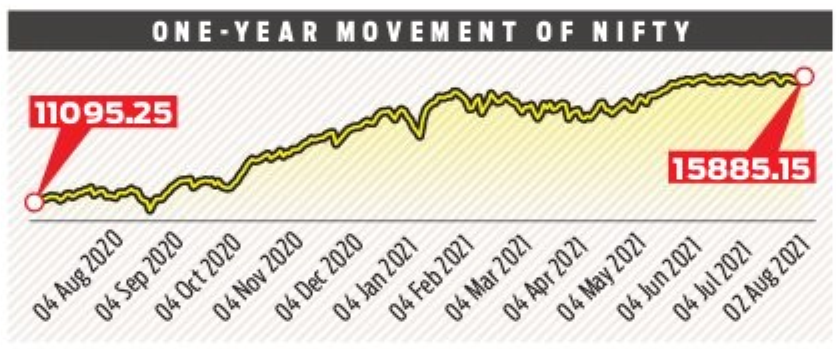
In the last one year, the Nifty has surged over 45% with Tata Steel, JSW Steel, Tata Motors, Hindalco and Vendanta giving maximum return (between 170-285%). If experts are to be believed, this rally may continue.

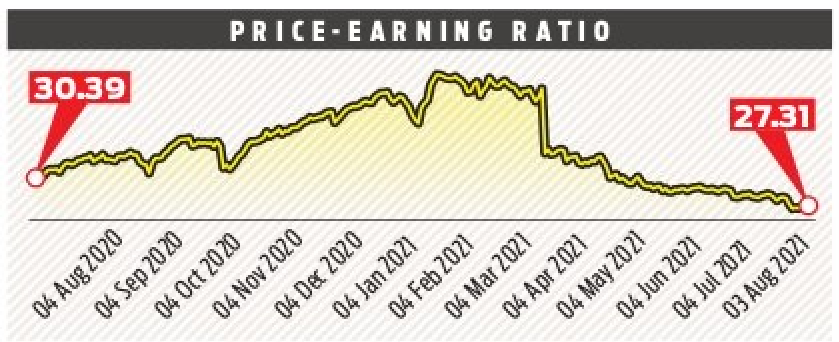
Ajit Mishra, VP - Research, Religare Broking, said that the market has resumed trend after two months of the range-bound move so it is unlikely to fade away anytime soon. "However, the participation of the banking index would be the critical factor as that would decide the pace of rising from hereon. Nifty has the potential to test 16,300+ zone now. Traders should align their positions accordingly," said Mishra.

Deepak Jasani, Head, Retail Research, HDFC Securities, said the momentum and breadth of the market are in favour as the near-term outperformance against Asian peers continues.

The S&P BSE Sensex surged more 800 points on Tuesday to touch a lifetime of 53,887. It closed the day at 53,823, up 1.65% from previous day closing. The 30-stock index has given near 43% return in the last one year.

More than 500 stocks on the BSE hit a fresh 52-week high, including big players such as Infosys, SBI, Sun Pharma, Titan and UltraTech Cements. Investors' wealth surged by more than ₹2 lakh crore in one trading session as the market capitalisations of BSE-listed firms rose from ₹237.74 lakh cr to ₹240.07 lakh cr on Aug 3.





PMO & finmin working on to cut NHAI's debt stress

ANURADHA SHUKLA @New Delhi

THE finance ministry is helping the National Highway Authority to come out of the debt trap and become financially viable, as the body has seen its debt mounting to ₹3.07 lakh crore on March 2021, up from ₹74,742 crore in March 2017, seeing a four-fold increase.

According to sources in the finance ministry, the NHAI had sought additional funds to come out of the financial mess, however, given the curb on expenditure, it had to resort to external commercial borrowing also. Overall, the NHAI has borrowed additional ₹58,000 crore in last one year. So, on the direction of the PMO, finance Ministry is helping it out.

"Because of Covid there is surge in debt. While this is not possible to increase funding for them, the department may help them out with infrastructure financing. Together we are finding out ways to make more finances available. There are many options under discussion," a senior finance ministry official said.

Since 2017, the NHAI has availed of external borrowing to the tune of ₹3,000 crore.

The official added that NHAI paid ₹18,840 crore as interest in 2020-21 and this is likely to increase substantially in next two-three years.

In fact the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Transport, Tourism and Culture also has raised concerns over NHAI's debt burden, which has been lingering on since 2019.

Even highways minister Nitin Gadkari has admitted in a written reply to the Parliament that NHAI's debt was an issue and he blamed many ongoing litigation responsible for the mess, involving ₹ 90,000 crore.

The minister also said there are 140 arbitration cases pending before various arbitral tribunals with ₹91,875 crore claims from contractors and ₹44,600 crore counter claims from the NHAI. Another 240 cases are in courts with claims of ₹21,600 crore.

REFERS KM BIRLA'S LETTER TO GOVT

Banks concerned over no clarity in telecom sector, says PNB MD

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

EVEN as Indian banks' loans to the telecom sector continue to face elevated risk, the recent developments and the lack of clarity over them are becoming a big concern for the banking industry, said Punjab National Bank (PNB) Managing Director and CEO SS Mallikarjuna Rao.

Referring to Kumar Manglam Birla's letter to the government where he has offered to hand over his stake in Vodafone-Idea (Vi) if that could save the company, Rao said PNB will discuss with other banks to come to a conclusion on the way forward.

"Developments in the last few days are areas of concern for the banking industry to look at...." Rao said. Even SBI chairman has stated that banks will probably not be willing to fund telecom companies in the absence of clarity, he added.

Birla's letter comes after the Supreme Court had rejected Bharti Airtel, Vodafone Idea and Tata Teleservices' plea seeking re-computation of the adjusted gross revenue (AGR)–related dues.

Birla owns more than 27% stake in Vi; the partner and global firm Vodafone Plc holds over 44%. The company has to pay a total AGR dues of more than ₹60,000 crore over 10 years. In addition, the company owed ₹96,270 crore as deferred spectrum obligations, and another ₹23,000 crore to banks and financial institutions as of March 31 this year.

Developments in the last few days are areas of concern for the banking industry to look at....

'Never objected to PNB Housing's deal with Carlyle'

Nearly a month after it asked PNB Housing Finance Ltd's board to "reconsider restructuring" its ₹4,000-crore fund-raising plans, PNB CEO said the lender never objected to the deal struck by its arm with Carlyle Group-led investors. We have only told them that SEBI communication may be looked into in terms of reconstruction of the process," said Rao, who is also the non-executive chairman of PNB Housing.

Bharti Airtel posts Q1 profit at ₹284 cr; revenues surge 15% YoY to ₹26,854 cr

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Chennai

TELECOM major Bharti Airtel on Tuesday reported a consolidated net profit of ₹284 crore for the quarter ended June 2021, the first quarter of the current financial year (Q1FY22), while its revenues for the period came in at ₹26,854 crore. The company had recorded a massive loss of ₹15,933 crore in the corresponding quarter of the previous financial year (Q1FY21) and a revenue of ₹23,290 crore.

In terms of revenue, the company has recorded a 15.3% year-on-year growth, with officials stating that adjusted for the removal of the Interconnect Usage Charges (IUC) mechanism (stopped from January 1 this year) revenues have grown 21%. While increased costs saw its profits nearly halved on a sequential basis from ₹759 crore in the previous quarter, the company has registered a marginal increase in the key average revenue per user (ARPU) metric.

ARPU rose to ₹146 during Q1FY22 from ₹145 in previous quarter and ₹138 in the corresponding quarter of the previous year. The company's earnings before interest, depreciation, and amortisation (EBIDTA) margin also improved sequentially from 48.9% to 49.1%.

However, the company's overall expenses rose 3.4% from the previous quarter to ₹13,873.3 crore while finance costs increased 9.5% to ₹4,225.7 crore. Its license fee/spectrum charges also grew 5.8% to ₹2,645.5 crore.

"While our wireless revenue was impacted by the Covid lockdown induced slowdown in terms of device shipments and a financial squeeze at the lower end of the market, our overall performance reflected the resilience and strength of our portfolio. We added ~ 5.1 Mn 4G customers during the quarter and our enterprise business in India continued to deliver strongly. Our Homes business grew by just about 13% over last year and added 285,000 customers in the quarter, the highest ever," said Gopal Vittal, MD and CEO (India and South Asia) Bharti Airtel.

Its Africa subsidiary, Airtel Africa Ltd, saw its revenues rising 7.1% quarter-on-quarter to ₹ 8,184 crore, while profit after tax declined 7.8% to ₹1,046.9 crore.

IOB profit up 170% on recoveries, lower provisions

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

HELPED by lower provisions and better recoveries, public sector Indian Overseas Bank (IOB) reported a net profit of ₹327 crore for the quarter ended June 30 as against ₹121 crore a year ago.

Provisions and contingencies for the quarter was ₹868 crore, compared with ₹970 crore in the year-ago quarter. The lender has exited all stressed accounts and going forward it will not be taking fresh exposures in stressed sectors, below hurdle-rated accounts and BB and below rated accounts as it awaits Reserve Bank of India's nod to come out of the prompt corrective action (PCA) framework.

"This year (in Q1 FY22), around ₹1,158 crore of slippages happened, but it was offset by higher cash recoveries of ₹1,125 crore. We had to provide less (for bad loans) compared to last year because of this," IOB Managing Director and CEO Partha Pratim Sengupta told reporters.

The Chennai-headquartered lender said it reduced non-performing assets (NPAs) worth ₹1,616 crore during the quarter compared with ₹1,969 crore in the same quarter last year. Gross NPA ratio improved to 11.48% from 13.9%. In absolute terms, the gross NPAs were worth ₹15,952 crore, down from ₹18,291 crore. Net NPAs, too, fell to 3.15% (₹3,998 crore) from 5.10% (₹6,081 crore), according to IOB's disclosures. During the quarter, it wrote off ₹793 crore of bad loans. It also sold ₹23.18 crore of NPAs to asset reconstruction companies (ARCs) in the April-June period. Sengupta said the bank has set a recovery target of ₹4,500 crore for this financial year. On capital raising, he said the bank may look at raising funds through tier-II bonds in November.

At operating level, profit rose to ₹1,202 crore in June quarter as against ₹1,094 crore in the year-ago period on account of lower interest expenditure.

Bank of India net profit falls 15%

New Delhi: Bank of India on Tuesday reported a 14.7% decline in net profit at ₹720 crore for the June quarter. Discoms need greater autonomy, says Niti Aayog

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

GOVERNMENT think-tank Niti Aayog has recommended that state-owned power distribution companies (discom) require greater operational and financial autonomy if they were to succeed. There should be a clear separation between the utility and state, it added.

The recommendations were made as part of a report titled 'Turning Around the Power Distribution Sector', where the think-tank observed that Niti the performance of state-owned discoms is also determined by the ability of the respective State Electricity Regulatory Commissions (SERC) to revise tariff frequently and adequately. "Good corporate governance practices, including the use of independent directors, can help ensure such separation," it added.

Niti Aayog pointed out that most discoms incur losses every year. During the last fiscal year, this loss is estimated at ₹90,000 crore. "Due to these accumulated losses, discoms are unable to pay for generators on time, as of March 2021, an amount of ₹67,917 crore was overdue," it said. The report also said that most distribution utilities make losses due to expensive long-term power purchase agreements, poor infrastructure, among others.

BEAUTY START-UP NYKAA TO RAISE ₹4,000 CR VIA IPO

BISMAH MALIK @Bengaluru

OMNI channel beauty and fashion startup Nykaa is a rare profitable startup looking to raise nearly ₹4,000 crore at a $5 billion valuation, almost a five-fold jump from its last financing round last year.

Nykaa , which was started by Falguni Nayar, a former investment banker in 2012, said in its Draft RedHerring Prospectus (DRHP) that the IPO will comprise a fresh issue of equity shares aggregating to ₹525 crore and an offer for sale of the 43 million equity shares by the existing shareholders including the Sanjay Nayar Family Trust, TPG Growth IV, Lighthouse India Fund III, Lighthouse India III Employee Trust, JM Financial and Investment Consultancy, Sunil Kant Munjal, among others.

Unlike many of its industry peers, Nayar's company turned cash flow positive during FY21 with Covid turning the fortunes of the company, which reported ₹61.9 crore Profit after tax (PAT) compared to the losses worth ₹16 crore in FY20 and ₹24,5 crore in FY19.

Revenue from the operations grew by 38% at ₹2,440 crore for FY21 compared to ₹1,767 crore a year ago. On an average,19.5 million orders were placed on the platform during FY21, with almost a two-fold growth in sales in the fashion category y-o-y.

According to a Redseer report, Nykaa commands one of the highest average order values on e-commerce platforms worth ₹1,963 for beauty and personal care (BPC) and ₹2,739 for fashion segments.

What lies ahead?

Nykaa has a total addressable market size of $152 billion across BPC and fashion segments, which are estimated to grow at a compounded annual growth rate (CAGR) of 12% and 18% respectively by 2025.

With a significant headroom for growth across its targeted segments, especially as the online penetration in BPC and fashion segments grow, Nykaa can leverage its already existent strong market share as well as invest further to compete with rivals like Amazon, Flipkart, MyGlamm, Tata Cliq among others.

The Redseer report points that the share of organised retail in BPC segments grew at a strong 71% CAGR to penetrate 6% of the BPC market in 2019, at ₹7,000 crore. The sector further grew at 30% from 2019 to 2020 to reach ₹9,100 crore and penetrates 8% of the overall BPC market.

RBI may stick to dovish pause

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

WITH little or no material change in the overall trajectory of economic variables since April, the forthcoming monetary policy committee (MPC) meeting is likely to be a non-event. According to economists, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) will keep rates unchanged and continue to maintain an accommodative policy stance. However, any hint on policy normalisation will be keenly watched.

"Our reading of high frequency activity indicators suggests no reason for the RBI to adjust its overall growth outlook, though its inflation forecasts may need to be revised modestly higher. We expect the RBI to follow a relatively quick normalisation cycle, but the time to signal this change of course is in the future, not the present. Only once the central bank is confident in the sustainability of a growth revival, the bank will begin to hike interest rates," said Rahul Bajoria, chief economist, Barclays India.

The GDP growth forecast for FY22 is pegged at 9.5%.

Par panel suggests threshold for haircuts under IBC

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

THE parliamentary standing committee on Finance has slammed the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC) for very low recovery rates, and expresses need for a benchmark for the quantum of haircuts.

The committee in its report has said: "Low recovery rates with haircuts as high as 95%, and delay in resolution process with 71% of the cases pending for more than 180 days clearly points towards a deviation from the original objectives of the Code intended by parliament."

The committee, therefore, says there is a need to have a relook at the design and implementation of the code in the light of its original aim and objective.

The committee has also sought to have a benchmark for the quantum of the haircuts comparable to global standards. The committee also said that there is a need for a professional code of conduct for the committee of creditors (CoC), whose Commercial Wisdom is considered supreme.

Good draw for Deepak & Ravi, tough test for Anshu

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

INDIAN wrestlers — Ravi Dahiya (57kg) and Deepak Punia (86kg) — got a good draw in their respective weight categories on Tuesday. Ravi, who is seeded fourth, will face Oscar Eduardo Tigreros Urbano from Colombia in his opening round. If he wins the bout, the 2019 World Championships bronze medallist will be up against Algeria's Abdelhak Kherbache or Georgi Valentinov Vangelov from Bulgaria in the quarterfinals.

A tough test, however, awaits him in the semifinal as he is likely to meet top-seed Stevan Andria Micic from Serbia or Takahashi Yuki from Japan, or Kazakh wrestler Nurislam Sanayev.

Second-seed Deepak will open his campaign against Nigerian Ekerekeme Agiomor.

A win in the first bout will put him against China's Lin Zushen or Pool Ambrocio from Peru in the quarterfinals. Like compatriot Ravi, he may face tough opponents like Myles Nazem Amine from San Marino or USA's David Morris Taylor in the semifinals.

Woman wrestler Anshu Malik (57kg), however, has to deal with European champion and third-seed Iryna Kurachkina from Belarus in her first bout. The Belarusian qualified for the Olympics by winning a bronze medal at the 2019 World Championships. If she manages to cross the first hurdle, she will be up against Valeria Koblova of Russia, Rio Olympic silver medallist or Alma Jane Valencia from Mexico in the quarterfinals.

Sonam ousted

Teenager Sonam Malik's Olympic debut (62kg) ended early as she was defeated by Mongolian Bolortuya Khurelkhuu in her first bout on Tuesday. Khurelkhuu lost her next bout to Bulgaria's Tayeb Mustafa Yusein, ending Sonam's hope of making it to the medal round via repechage. Sonam was leading 2-0 but paid the price for playing defensively as the Asian silver medallist Khurelkhuu effected a take-down move with just 35 seconds left in the contest to level the score. With the score tied at 2-2 after the second period, the Mongolian wrestler was declared winner on criteria.

Rousing welcome for bronze winner Sindhu

AYANTAN CHOWDHURY @New Delhi

TOKYO bronze medallist PV Sindhu returned to India to a rousing reception at the Indira Gandhi International Airport here on Tuesday. As soon as she stepped out, there was a sea of fans waiting outside and they gave the first Indian woman to win two Olympic medals a befitting welcome with drums and dhols.

She was welcomed by Badminton Association of India general secretary, Ajay Singhania, along with other SAI officials at the airport. Wearing a mask, the 26-year-old walked through the terminal amid a round of applause from the airport staff present. She was constantly flanked by security officers on her way out.

The shuttler from Hyderabad along with her South Korean coach Park Tae-sang were felicitated by Singhania at the airport. "I am very happy and excited of course, every body congratulated me and I am thankful to BAI and everyone for supporting and encouraging me. It is an exciting day and happy moment," Sindhu said.

From there, the duo were whisked away to another felicitation ceremony organised by the sports ministry. Sports Minister Anurag Thakur said, "Sindhu is amongst India's greatest Olympians. She is India's icon, inspiration and has caught the imagination of every Indian who dreams of playing for the country. Her incredible achievement — that of winning two Olympic medals in two consecutive Olympic Games will inspire a generation of budding."

A visibly elated Sindhu said she was disappointed that she could not make it past the semifinals but was happy returning with a medal, her second straight medal at the Olympic Games. "I would like to thank each one of my fans. Though we played without fans in the stadium, I am sure billions have supported me from India and this success is the result of their wishes. I would like to thank my parents for their constant support and sacrifices, and my coach for working with me and making this dream come true," she said.

The government funded Sindhu to the tune of nearly Rs 4 crore in the last Olympic cycle, including travel to 52 international tournaments besides training camps in Hyderabad. Besides, in collaboration with Telangana Government, it facilitated her training in the Gachibowli Stadium ahead of the Olympic Games. Her second Olympic medal came after a straight games victory over He Bing Jiao in the bronze medal match.

Sindhu's parents P Vijaya and PV Ramana travelled from Hyderabad to be part of the programme.

Indian players react after the match against Belgium | PTI

FIRST QUARTER

2-1 Both sides start very fast. After trailing, India seize initiative by scoring two very quick goals. At the break, Reid tells his players to keep it simple.

SECOND

2-2 Red Lions equalise and steadily begin to get a grip on the match. India, for their part, miss a crucial corner in the 29th minute.

THIRD

2-2 The pace has considerably slowed down because of the heat. India, who have thrived on field goals all tournament, struggle to manufacture proper circle penetrations.

FOURTH

2-5 The wheels come off. Belgium have one penalty corner and they keep hammering the door down before they stretch advantage to 4-2. India remove PR Sreejesh and the result is academic.

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Chennai

FOR 10 minutes, the dream was on. For those 600 dreamy seconds, it looked like India were on their way to a first Olympic final since 1980. With the sun beating down Oi Hockey Stadium's North Pitch, the Men In Blue allowed fans to get lost in the moment. Even battle-hardened stone-dead followers of Indian hockey — the ones who know that a one-goal lead in hockey is nothing — momentarily lost control of their senses.

That was also when India momentarily lost control of the area of the pitch that was always likely to decide the outcome of the match: India's defence vs Belgian forwards. The one thing international coaches readily accept about Belgium is their set-piece prowess. They are a great defensive machine inside their own third but they are so cute in the opposition third, their attackers almost always win corners when given the chance to drive the ball inside the box.

By the time Alexander Hendrickx equalised four minutes into the second quarter, the flicker, one of the best in the world at this particular skill-set, looked almost pissed even as he celebrated with teammates. "How did I manage to miss the previous three ones?" Those previous three short corners, all in the opening minutes of the second stanza, came just after a period of play when the two teams elevated the sport to art.

With International Olympic Committee (IOC) president Thomas Bach in attendance, they played out one of the best quarters in recent times. It was bum-clenching and it began in the very first minute.

Five Belgium passes took them from back to front before a fierce drive from inside the right channel caught an Indian boot inside the 'D'. Hendrickx was outside but Loick Luypaert was there and his flicked effort found the corner. One thing coach Graham Reid has drilled into his side is embrace adversity, react positively after going behind. True to form, they levelled before going ahead in the space of seven minutes.

An in-form Harmanpreet Singh made no mistake from the set-piece to bring India level. Two minutes later, a similar drive into the D from the right found the stick of Mandeep Singh. He turned, swivelled before unleashing a reverse hit. 2-1 and the players' embrace told its own story. But the first quarter was more than just the scoreline. The pace, in searing temperatures, could have as well been an ad for 'The Fast and the Furious: Tokyo Drift', the 2006 sequel to '2 fast 2 Furious'.

Because Belgium resolutely defend their 'D' — after the 2018 World Cup final, the Netherlands even accused them of 'parking the bus' tactics to win the match — they usually don't concede corners. In fact, coming into the semifinal, they had only given away 13, a tournament low. So when India got their penalty corner of a manic first 15 minutes, it seemed like a great opportunity to stretch that lead. However, Rupinder Pal Singh's effort was blocked by custodian Vincent Vanasch.

Then, Hendrickx, who finished with a hat-trick, took centrestage. When you give away 14 corners to a team like Belgium — not a surprise given the Indian defence had given away 34 corners coming into the semifinal — you are signing your own death sentence. Hendrickx duly converted two of those, including one to take the lead in the 49th minute.

What hampered India was the fact that captain Manpreet Singh had just picked up a green card and was of the park. That was the time when the wheels came off. Belgium earned seven penalty corners and one penalty stroke, also converted by Hendrickx, in seven-eight surreal fourth quarter minutes. The Indian onrushers, especially Amit Rohidas, took blow after punishing blow but they just couldn't get out of their own box. They ended up paying the ultimate penalty.

They will now have to recover from the disappointment to fight for bronze against Germany. Finishing third may not be gold but it would still be a nice way to finish from what has been a very positive campaign.

Rani & Co look to extend dream run

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Chennai

A FEW of the women's hockey players were asked to 'settle down' by their family members before the pandemic struck in 2020. All of them struck a deal. After the Olympics. Multiple members of this squad had below par performances in 2016 so they were desperate to show what they were capable of in Tokyo.

They are now 60 minutes away from one of the greatest feats ever achieved by an Indian women's team in any sport. Standing between them and a place is the final is Argentina. Even though this isn't the Argentina side of old -- they have multiple world and Olympic titles to their name -- they have recovered well to reach this far after losing the first match.

Going purely on paper, Las Leonas are favourites. Unlike the Indians, they are used to matches like this. But you would have to be brave to completely rule out another surprise. Rani Rampal & Co have form on their side, winning three matches on the bounce. What also sets them apart is the way they handle pressure and big moments. One only needed to see the second leg of their Olympic qualifier against the US (they won 6-5 on aggregate) to realise this.

They have worked with psychologists throughout the last three years so the question of belief is never a problem. They not only believe this is their stage but think they can go one better. And while they may not have the big game experience, they can more than bridge that with a drive to succeed as well as the skills to take on the best in the business.

As they showed against Australia, they can maintain defensive shape, hassle opponents into making mistakes as well as score from set pieces. In Gurjit Kaur, they have a champion drag-flicker who relishes responsibility.

Saying that, Argentina will be a different test. They play a more physical game and considering the match is in the evening, heat will be less of a factor.

Where skaters fall and rise

Skateboarding, the most counter-culture sport among the new Olympics additions, had a rough start at the Tokyo Games. The world's best skaters fell repeatedly on to the concrete in street skateboarding, though most of them picked themselves up and went on to perform incredibly difficult tricks. Park skateboarding, where skaters traverse steep bowls, will debut on Wednesday and may see more falls and wipeouts. Master athletes say falling is key to skateboarding. We look at how the park event will work...

BASICS

- The park is a hollowed-out concrete structure packed with slopes of varying angles.
- Some resemble large dishes and others are dome shaped bowls.
- The contestants are free to choose their route and tricks.
- The competitors perform all sorts of tricks but the real highlight is the big-air tricks.
- The competitors climb the curves at high speeds and perform these vertical air tricks.

Indian athletes' below-par show not a surprise

FLIPSIDE

INDRANEEL DAS

As a sport, athletics is sublime. In the Olympics, it transcends into a gladiatorial stage without blood where stupendous human feats are enacted live, in front of millions without any retake. It's a stage where heroes like Norway's Karsten Warholm are thrown into the realm of greatness, where American Rai Benjamin symbolises the indomitable spirit of human pursuance and Brazil's Alison Dos Santos the supporting act. First two smashed the 400m hurdle world record set by Warholm last month. The beauty of athletics lies in such superhuman efforts.

Away from that narrative, tucked in the other corner, is the dismal show of our athletes. Barring a few, most who qualified failed to perform their personal best or even their season's best. Going by past records, it's nothing surprising. All on predictable lines. Perhaps, the real picture was obscured by the jingoistic narratives after they qualified. Avinash Sable is an aberration. In the 3000m steeplechase he managed a national record. And of course, the unheralded Kamalpreet Kaur, competing alone without the luxury of a coach, finished sixth in a rain-marred discus throw final.

Take for instance, Annu Rani. At one point of time before the Olympics, she was touted as one who could make the final if not challenge those medal winners in the women's javelin. She was ranked somewhere around 11th on the World Athletics' Race to Tokyo ranking early this year. She slipped to 18 when the Olympics qualification period ended. She managed just 54.04m. Her season's best is 63.24, a national record in March (Federation Cup senior nationals in Patiala), bettering her own mark of 62.43m. And she was training under legendary javelin thrower and coach Uwe Hohn.

Same with shot-putter Tajinder Pal Singh Toor. The burly shot-putter was fit and throwing in the range of 21m. The qualification for the final was set at 21.20m, 0.10m more than the qualifying standard for Olympics and below his national record of 21.49m set during the Indian Grand Prix 4 in Patiala in June. In Tokyo he managed only 19.99m and finished 13th in his group and 24th overall in the 31 player field. Similarly, Dutee Chand went into the Olympics with a season's best of 11.17s during the Indian Grand Prix where some great timings were set. She had been running around 11.51 (Indian GP 1) to 11.44 (Indian GP 2) until then. In Tokyo she managed 11.54s, way off that 11.17 she set this season.

Long jumper M Shreeshankar too was a disappointment. Like Dutee and Tajinder, his season's best was achieved in Indian GP 4 where he touched 8.26m. Training on his own with his father in Palakad, the young jumper could manage only 7.69m to finish 13th in the group and 25th overall. MP Jabir too is a similar story. After a high of 49.78s the during inter-state athletics meet in the later half of June, he clocked 50.71s in Olympics qualification round. With the kind of athletes that took part, there is no use discussing mixed relay results.

This has been the story for the last few Olympics. Yes, this time it had been difficult for athletes due to the pandemic. Chances to compete or train abroad were minimal. But this has been the story. With Asian Games next year, the Athletics Federation of India would be hoping to soothe the scars of Tokyo. And everyone knows, in Asia, athletics is not even as competitive as at the Commonwealth Games.

Asian Games medals are fine but we should not project Olympic performance based on Asian Games. It's time AFI and the Sports Authority of India evaluate and find a solution rather than just change a few foreign coaches here and there. Only hope rests with javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra, the only international star of India.

Norwegian Warholm smashes his own world record to win 400 metres hurdles gold in Tokyo

EDDIE PELLS @ Tokyo

When brash Norwegian hurdler Karsten Warholm led the field to the starting line on a steamy afternoon at Olympic Stadium, he and his seven opponents had every reason to expect they'd be part of something special.

It turned out to be more than that.

This gathering of the world's best 400-metre hurdlers Tuesday produced a gold medal for Warholm, a world record, a masterpiece and slice of history. It also might have been one of the best races ever run.

"I never thought in my wildest imagination that this would be possible," Warholm said after smashing his own world record in a time of 45.94 seconds.

In deciding where the race stands in the annals of Olympic history, there is a lot to consider:

—The man who finished behind Warholm, Rai Benjamin, ran more than half a second faster than any other hurdler in history: 46.17. Had anyone dared tell him he would run that fast and finish second, Benjamin said, "I would probably beat you up and tell you to get out of my room."

— The third-place finisher, Alison dos Santos of Brazil, finished in 46.72, which would've been a world record five weeks earlier. — The man who finished seventh in the eight-man field, Rasmus Magi of Estonia, was barely in the frame of photos taken from behind the finish line. But he was one of six to set either a world, continental or national record. "It's a lot to process," Benjamin said.

Warholm's pull-away win in front of an empty stadium — someday, thousands might brag they were there — eclipsed his month-old world record by .76 seconds.

By comparison, in the 400 flat, it took 48 years for the record to come down by a comparable amount — .85 seconds between 1968 (Butch Reynolds) and 2016 (Wayde van Niekerk).

Van Niekerk's world record in the 400 is 43.03. That's only 2.91 faster than what Warholm did with 10 hurdles to scale.

Hard to believe, even for the athletes watching it unfold in front of them.

"After the second hurdle. I was like, shite. If you go after them, it's suicidal," said Kyron McMaster, the fourth-place finisher whose time of 47.08 would've won the last six Olympics.

As recently as June 30, 2021, the 400-meter hurdle record stood at 46.78. It was set by American Kevin Young at the 1992 Barcelona Games. On July 1, Warholm brought it down to 46.7, which felt like either a brazen rejoinder to Benjamin, or a sign of things to come.

Only a week before that, at US Olympic trials, Benjamin had run 46.83 to become the fourth man to crack 47. After the run, he announced that he felt he had a "low 46" in him somewhere, maybe in Tokyo.

That back-and-forth set the stage for Tuesday, and a showdown between rivals who have brought this event to a pinnacle not seen since the 1980s. Over a decade of dominance, Edwin Moses won 107 straight finals, two Olympic golds and lowered the world record four times.

One thing Moses didn't have was a rival, which, he explained earlier this week, might have kept him from going lower than the 47.02 that stood as the record for nearly nine years before Young. Warholm and Benjamin are rivals.

Beginner's luck

As a boy 25-year-old Warholm eschewed traditional Norwegian sports like long-distance skiing, claiming he did not have the physique for it. Running became a passion instead, his interest sparked by a friend in his hometown Ulsteinvik, on the northwest coast of Norway.

PARTNERSHIP WITH VETERAN COACH

The moment that set Warholm on the path to Tuesday's astonishing performance began when he teamed up with veteran coach Leif Olav Alnes in 2015. That partnership led to Warholm ditching his early efforts in the decathlon in favour of the hurdles in 2016.

A WISE OLD HEAD ON YOUNG SHOULDERS

Warholm may seem an extrovert -- just look at his open-mouthed astonishment after seeing his time on Tuesday -- but he does not get to be the sole public voice in the relationship with Alnes. Alnes says what struck him from the moment they met is that Warholm has maturity beyond his years.

RECORD BREAKER, LEGO BUILDER

To pass his time during the height of the coronavirus pandemic Warholm developed a passion for... Lego. He used the lockdown to hone his skills on Lego building projects including Manchester United's Old Trafford Stadium -- all 3,898 pieces of it.

NO MORE SCOOPS

Warholm attributes a lot of his improvement to taking his diet more seriously, which has meant saying farewell to his beloved ice cream.

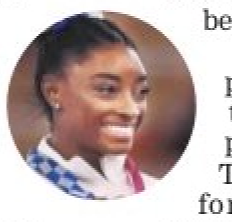
Had nerves but felt pretty good: Biles

ASSOCIATED PRESS @ Tokyo

SIMONE Biles found something a little more manageable than the weight of the world.

Bronze.

The American gymnastics superstar earned her seventh Olympic medal and second in Tokyo with a third-place finish in the balance beam final on Tuesday, a week after she took herself out of several competitions to deal with a mental block that prevented her from twisting while performing.



Biles drilled a slightly watered-down version of her usual routine in front of a crowd that included IOC President Thomas Bach. The bronze — matching the one she captured in Rio de Janeiro five years ago — moved her into a tie with Shannon Miller for the most Olympic medals by an American gymnast.

"This definitely feels sweeter than Rio's bronze medal on beam because I did a good beam routine," she said.

Biles, using a double-pike dismount — no twisting required — posted a score of 14.000. That was good enough for bronze behind the Chinese duo of gold medalist Guan Chenchen (14.633) and Tang Xijing (14.233).

"I had nerves but I felt pretty good," she said.

Olympic all-around champion Sunisa Lee of the United States finished fifth. The 18-year-old Lee won three medals in Tokyo, including silver in the team final and bronze on uneven bars.

Biles pulled out of competition earlier saying she felt "the weight of the world" on her 4-foot-8 frame. She shoved it aside to reach the podium for the 32nd time in major international competition.

Biles arrived on the floor about 90 minutes before the competition started. If she was nervous, it hardly showed. She warmed up as if it was just another day back in the gym her family owns in the northern Houston suburbs. Twice she hopped onto the beam to do a run-through of her routine and she stuck her double-pike dismount to applause from the stands and the whir of dozens of cameras.

Thompson-Herah creates history

AFP @ Tokyo

ELAINE Thompson-Herah made Olympic history in Tokyo Tuesday, emulating fellow Jamaican Usain Bolt to complete an unprecedented women's sprinting "double-double" with victory in the 200 metres.

Thompson-Herah, the 2016 Olympics 100m and 200m gold medallist who defended her 100m title on Saturday, sealed a record fourth individual gold after storming home in a blistering 21.53sec. Namibian teenager Christine Mboma took silver in 21.81sec while the Gabby Thomas won bronze in 21.87sec. Thompson-Herah's time was the second fastest in history after Florence Griffith Joyner's world record of 21.34sec set at the 1988 Seoul Games.

Five tests for India's batting group

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Chennai

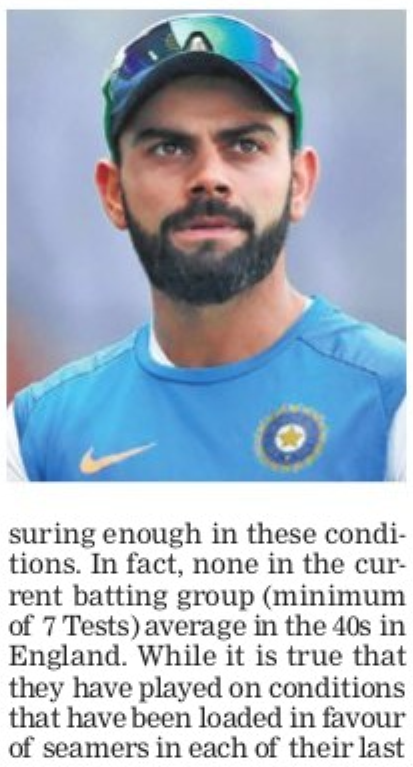
THE men's and women's hockey players adorn the front pages of newspapers. Mirabai Chanu and Lovlina Borgohain are on the backpages. PV Sindhu is the talk of the country. That in itself must be a strange feeling for the cricketers before a marquee Test series like the Pataudi Trophy. India can address that 'strange feeling' as early as Thursday, Day 1 of the first Test that gets underway at Trent Bridge. As always, all eyes are on the pitch. It has made both teams delay finalising their XI till the toss.

For all you know, this low-key build-up could be a blessing in disguise for Team India. They would rather prefer to fly under the radar than being talked up as favourites, especially when beating England in England has sort of become an obsession. They won't admit it, with captain Virat Kohli revealing on Tuesday that this series is as important as ones they play elsewhere. But many moons later and after plenty of drinks, the 4-1 scoreline in 2018 still hurts many in the team. In that sense, it is truly the final frontier for India.

PATAUDI TROPHY
AUG 4-SEP 14

This time, they are in with more than a definite chance of winning the series in a country where they have won only two of their last 13 Tests. It might sound daunting and a bridge too far to cross, but given the resources they have, there is only one favourite to win the series and it happens to be the visitors. Even more so after England's talisman Ben Stokes walking away from the game for his mental wellbeing. He will not be available at least for the first two Tests.

In the two press conferences India have had in the lead up to the Test, they haven't fielded any question that has gone on to address them as favourites. There is a reason to it. Just like how England's inexperienced batting order is being seen as their weakest link, India with Kohli, Cheteshwar Pujara, Ajinkya Rahane, Rohit Sharma and KL Rahul, have not been assuring enough in these conditions. In fact, none in the current batting group (minimum of 7 Tests) average in the 40s in England. While it is true that they have played on conditions that have been loaded in favour of seamers in each of their last two tours, Kohli happens to be the only batsman to have an average in 30s in England. Pujara and Rahane's average is in the late 20s, which shows how big a struggle it has been for them.



For a batting unit that has had a batting collapse inside a session in each of their overseas tours, they have encountered it far too frequently in England and it has been their biggest undoing.

Adding to their misery has been England's seamers, who have even tested the very best on home conditions, under cloud cover or not. And speaking to reporters, Kohli admitted India have work to do on that front.

"It is all about understanding when things are not going your way, how to control the damage and that is what Test cricket is all about and you have to go through the situations and eventually capitalise when things turn your way. Because you are not gonna have all the sessions going your way. That is one area we need to improve. In Tests we have done that well, we have ended up winning," Kohli said.

Given how fragile England's own batting line-up is, India expect the conditions to be not severely loaded in favour of the seamers as it could come back to bite them. If that holds true, then the onus will be on Indian batsmen to capitalise on it and bring home the trophy that has eluded them since 2007.

Bridge side Live on SPN from 3.25 PM

New beginning

The Pataudi Trophy between England and India gets underway in Nottingham on Wednesday. Here is what to expect from the series...

WHAT ARE INDIA'S CHANCES?

In 2018, they lost 1-4, but the scoreline won't reflect how closely they fought the series as they were in with an equal chance going into the fourth innings of all the five Tests. And to be fair, India have a definite chance to win the series this time and it will come down to the batsmen. Last time, insecurity among the batsmen caused them dearly and if they sort that out, and get runs on board, they have the attack to win them Tests.

HOW ABOUT ENGLAND?

They are slightly depleted. And will miss the services of all-rounder, Ben Stokes, who provides the team with not only good balance, but can send down testing spells. That aside, their batting line-up is way too dependent on captain Joe Root. However, they still have more than enough arsenal in their bowling to cause India trouble.

WHERE SERIES WILL BE WON?

Both the batting units are capable of collapsing under a session because both teams have exceptional bowling units. Last time the runs scored by the lower-order tilted the series in favour of England and expect the same to happen this time too. Also, it is what helped India beat England at home in February-March.

PITCH AND CONDITIONS

The pitch has grass cover and both teams have not revealed their XI as yet. Expect seamers to be in the game at all point as overcast conditions are expected throughout the five days.

2007	The last time India won a Test series in England. Overall, they have won only three series in England.
1	India have won only a Test each in each of their two previous tours to England. Have lost seven out of 10 they have played against the hosts.

CHAK DE GIRLS OF FRASER TOWN

Let's go down memory lane to see how Bengaluru girls made it to the state and national hockey team

SANATH PRASAD

IT was a historic moment when the Indian women's hockey team entered the semi-finals by beating Australia at the Tokyo Olympics 2020. It is indeed a Chak De moment for India.

Circa 1970—the 80s, there existed an energetic group representing the women's hockey team in Bengaluru who was fondly called the Chak De girls of Fraser Town.

Led by captain Elvira Britto, the women represented Karnataka (then Mysore) and India in the '70s and '80s. While the new generation of hockey team practice and get trained on a hockey turf, the Fraser Town girls practised on anything but a hockey ground. From playing with damaged hockey sticks to having celebrated the victory at Bengaluru's iconic Hotel Breeze on Brigade Road, the Chak De team gets nostalgic about the bygone era. The team was coached by late VV Naidu, a well-respected hockey coach, who passed away in 2016, at the age of 97.

Interestingly, most of them are the alumnae of St Francis Xavier Girls High School, Fraser Town and were engaged in a lot of sports-related activities, including athletics and hockey which formed the bedrock of their sports journey.

Jacqualine Colaco, who played on the right half, documents some of the moments from the '70s and '80s and reveals the struggles and challenges they faced.

One of the major challenges the team faced, was inadequate financial support from the sports authorities. Reminiscing the past, Colaco, who represented India in 1971, said that due to the paucity of financial support, their hockey bats remained unchanged despite the damage.

"We played the game for the sheer love of it. Even when representing the state, all we were given were a pair of shorts and a shirt, and perhaps a stick. When we won a tournament, we would celebrate at Hotel Breeze. The winning cup would be filled with beer and sipped by all, as we munched on masala dosae topped by a cup of coffee," says Colaco, fondly called the Legs 11.

The Britto sisters— Mae Britto, Elvira Britto and Rita Britto — recall that the challenges they encountered while practising hockey actually made the game easier for them. "We practised on anything but a hockey ground. Our training sessions were conducted on hard grounds which made blocking the ball easier and our movements on the ground faster. Most of the tournaments were held at the BRV ground (now Chinnaswamy Stadium) or Sullivan Police Ground. Most of us were also teachers and this gave us time to practise in the evening," recalls Britto, an Arjuna awardee.

Britto, who captained both Karnataka and the Indian women's hockey team for over 10 years, said that the players were selected based on their performances in the club matches. There were three prominent clubs—Bangalore Sporting Club, Eagles Club, and I club where inter-club matches were conducted.

As the current women's hockey team makes it to the semis, the Fraser Town women could not be happier. "The girls did a good job and beating the Australians is indeed an achievement," says the Britto sisters.

Colaco says, "Play your best because you love the game and have practised hard to reach this level, not because of name and fame and lucre. One should be a gracious winner or a gracious loser."

This B' luru girl has received the Vice-Chancellor's Social Impact Award at the University of Oxford, for inventing a solar chargeable lithium ion portable battery useful for pushcart vendors

INNOVATION & PLAUDITS

VEDIKA MANE

BENGALURU-girl Prerna Wadikar recently won the Vice Chancellor's Social Impact Award at the University of Oxford, UK. She received the award for inventing a device that resembles a power bank, which is a lithium ion portable battery.

Conceptualised in 2010 by the former vice-chancellor of Oxford, Prof. Andrew Hamilton, the award is presented every year to the University's students for their exceptional work and commitment towards positive social change.

Wadikar was awarded for starting 'Jeeva Global' meant for supporting immigrant communities in Oxfordshire, and a decade-long demonstration of social development through personal and professional initiatives.

"Jeeva, which is the brand name has the ability to power the underserved, globally. I envision a world where energy is universally available, accessible, and affordable," says Wadikar, who did her Master's in Public Policy from the Indian Institute of Management (IIM), Bengaluru.

Further, she says, "The device can be fast-charged in just one hour compared to five hours for other batteries and it can run up to three devices, simultaneously. This can be used in any place that needs energy access and use of multiple electric devices."

Some of the many uses of the device are – powering refrigeration of vaccinations at primary health centres, lights and small table fans, and electrification of residences in tribal and remote areas. The USP of the product is, it can be completely independent of the electric grid through its capability to charge through solar panels.

During her childhood days, Wadikar's mother Neena Wadikar inculcated in her the idea of how science can be used for the upliftment of the society, and in the process encouraged her to pursue computer engineering.

Further, she tells this correspondent that Prof. Anil Gupta from IIM Ahmedabad has been instrumental in making her recognise and appreciate the latent talent of India.

"During the first phase of the lockdown, pushcart vendors were severely affected. This inspired the business model to supplement their income through additional revenue sources," says Wadikar, who has multisectoral work experience of 10 years.

The pilot deployments of the device were made in Bengaluru and the feedback from pushcart vendors has been incorporated.

The product should be available commercially after the development of a dedicated production line at Livaah Innovations, a Bengaluru-based electronic system design and manufacturing company.

Wadikar says that her primary objective for innovating the product, was to make energy both accessible and affordable to the end-users.

"We are confident that when the product is manufactured at scale, this will be one of the lowest-priced solar chargeable products in its category, internationally. To make it accessible to all, we need the support of both corporate and government sectors," she adds.

Social gathering places become creative in their approach; fitness and wellness activities with food and beverage are on offer

Rejuvenating and rebranding

Salt therapy sessions at Bodhsara wellness and Salt Studio

SANATH PRASAD

THE new normal lifestyle induced by the Covid 19, has forced Bangalore's social gathering places to weave a synergy between meeting and greeting along with wellness sessions. Let's get a sneak-peak into this new trend of socialising coupled with a fitness regime.

Reset Koramangala, a holistic fitness centre and a cafe has rolled out activities by clubbing food and fitness for people to unwind their mind, body, and soul, especially after the gruelling lockdown due to the Covid 19 outbreak.

Surendra Kedia, owner of Cafe Reset Koramangala says, "We have introduced sunrise and sunset yoga sessions followed by brunch and dinner, respectively. People can pre-book in groups and attend the sessions on any day. We are conducting the sessions with a limited number of people, ranging between 15 to 20. The idea is to help people unwind themselves and relax with fitness and wellness activities like yoga, pranayama, meditation, and some fun activities. It also includes jacuzzi, spa treatment, and steam bath," says Kedia.

However, some restaurants have adopted a wait and watch strategy. For example, Hitesh Tulsani, manager, sales, and operations for Rahi Neo Kitchen and Bar is planning to introduce breakfast and fitness combo in the coming weeks. "We are planning to club nutritious breakfast options along with yoga and meditation sessions for our customers. The plan is on cards and once we assess the footfall of the customers, we will roll it out in the coming days," says Tulsani.

Not just cafes, even wedding venues are offering wellness activities as part of the wedding package. Le Roma Gardenia, a wedding venue, is planning to roll out wellness activities in their 48-hour wedding package.

"We are looking at infusing detoxification programmes and sessions for the mind, body, and soul just ahead of the ritual day. We also want to do a small orientation on weddings about the ups and downs of life, with the families. This is to ensure that the couple goes through relaxing and refreshing wellness sessions before starting their new journey together," says Rohan Salian, founder, Le Roma Gardenia. Mita Vinay, founder of Bodhsara Wellness and Salt Studio, is providing services on the lines of social healing where people meet and greet and focus on health and wellbeing at the same time.

Meanwhile, wellness experts believe that such social gathering places usually find it hard to enforce strict health protocols and the fear of the virus is still looming large.

Wellness coach and Fit India Ambassador Wanitha Ashok, says, "Sometimes, health protocols are flouted at such places. The fear of the virus persists and a lot of people confine themselves to fitness routines at home," says Ashok.

PRASARITA PADOTTANASANA C

(WIDE-LEGGED FORWARD BEND C POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'prasarita' means expanded, 'pada' means feet, 'uttana' means intense stretch and 'asana' means pose. The legs offer a grounded base for the rest of the body, while the spine falls forward allowing blood flow to the brain and encouraging clarity of mind. This pose can be therapeutic for those experiencing mild depression or anxiety, and may offer relief for those who have a headache or feel fatigued.

STEPS

- Stand with feet wide apart, grounded firmly, and hands on hips.
- Inhale, interlock the hands behind the back and look upwards.
- Exhale while tilting the hips and pelvis forward with a flat spine, moving the head towards the floor and bringing the interlocked hands overhead.
- Let the hands fall towards the floor, touching the floor if possible.
- The shoulders should remain active, pressing down the back with arms strong and straight, and the shoulders away from the ears.
- In the fullest expression of this pose, the crown of the head will be able to touch the floor.
- Stay in this pose for 5 to 10 breaths. To come out of this pose, inhale and lift back up as you press into your feet. Come back into your original pose.

BENEFITS

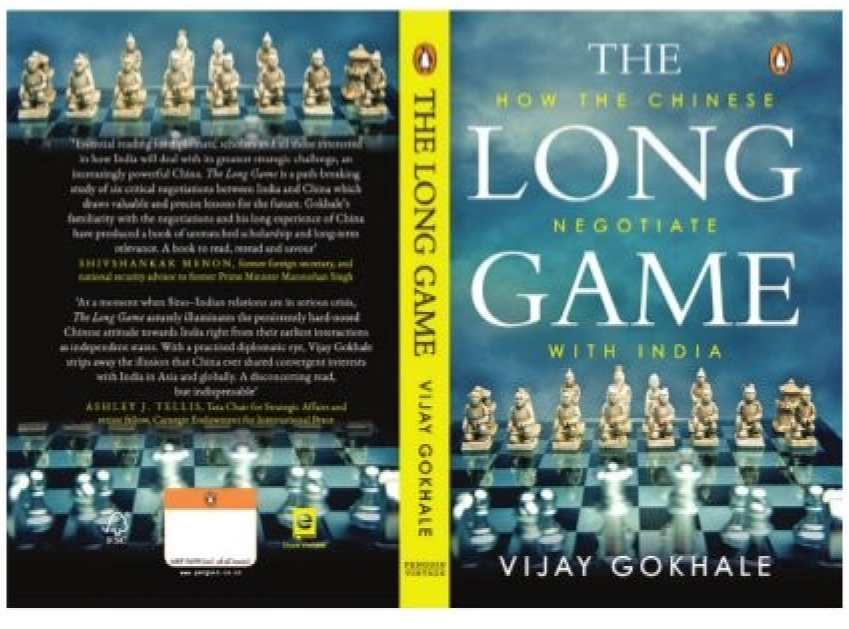
CHINA'S BUSINESS WITH INDIA WAS MOSTLY THROUGH MARITIME ROUTES



TURNING PAGES

China is our largest neighbour and the country with which we have had prolonged negotiations on a variety of issues since 1950. This book explores how China negotiated with India from the early years after Independence until the present, and what lessons India may draw from this about negotiating with the Chinese. It explores this through six important events in our bilateral relationship, which covers the period from 1949 to 2019.

These are: (1) Recognition by the Government of India of the People's Republic of China on 30 December 1949; (2) the Agreement on Trade and Intercourse between the Tibet Region of China and India of 29 April 1954; (3) India's nuclear tests in 1998; (4) China's formal recognition of Sikkim as a part of India on 11 April 2005; (5) the India-China diplomatic negotiations on the 123 Nuclear Deal in 2008; and (6) the listing of Masood Azhar as a terrorist in the UNSC 1267 Sanctions List on 1 May 2019.

From the Indian perspective such narration might be useful in discerning how China negotiates and also how this might have changed as China accumulates greater power in the international system, as well as the instruments and means that China deploys in the pursuit of its goals. We've often heard claims being made about the long historical connection between India and China. However, relatively little is known about their diplomatic interaction in the pre-modern age, aside from travelogues of monk-scholars from China to India in the first millennium of the Common Era, and sporadic diplomatic expeditions from Indian kingdoms to the Tang and Song imperial courts from the seventh to the twelfth centuries. More recently, the Chinese government has been highlighting the naval expeditions of Zheng He, in the early fifteenth century, to the Indian Ocean, including the Kerala coast, in order to legitimize their growing presence west of the Malacca Strait.

Evidence of an Indian (possibly Tamil) settlement in Quanzhou, in the Fujian province of modern China, also attests to trade links in the mid-second millennium of the Common Era.

There is little recorded history of how the two major Indo-Pacific civilizations interacted in political and diplomatic terms. This might be explained by the absence of direct contact across a shared boundary because, despite Chinese claims to suzerainty over Tibet since the thirteenth century (Yuan dynasty), Tibet was mostly left to its own devices. Since China's business with India was mostly through maritime routes, the opportunity and necessity of political interaction was limited.

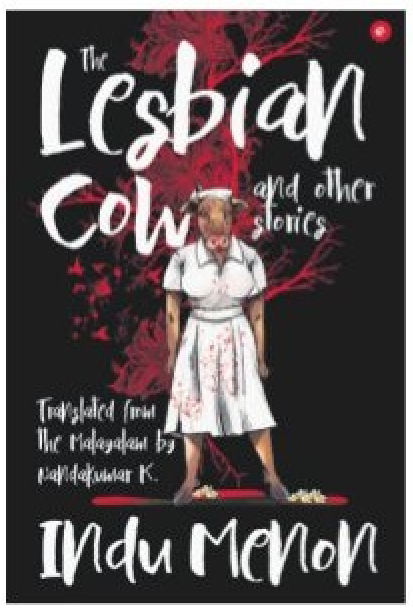
Confronting the dark and grotesque

Indu Menon's characters come from all walks of life, many sexualities, genders. They etch themselves into our hearts



KRISHNA P S

INDU Menon's stories are a reflection of our contemporary society. In The Lesbian Cow and Other Stories, she tells the stories of people kept on the sidelines for centuries. These tales are cruel, bloody, gory and are not for the fainthearted.

She revels in the beauty of ugliness. Juxtapositioning the cruel and the ugly in beautiful prose, she plays with the reader's heart without mercy. Her characters, especially the women, don't bow down in front of unfortunate circumstances. They stand up and fight, sometimes to their death.

In the titular story, The Lesbian Cow, our heroine is a nurse with bovine features. Through the eyes of others, her ugliness is described beautifully in Menon's clever words. "She smells like a cow, sir. She has a bovine look. Tough, hard feet like hooves," . Like most of Menon's characters, the Lesbian Cow doesn't have a happy ending. Owing to her different features and her unhidden sexuality, she stands out and easily becomes a victim of the cruel society. However, she's not your typical battered down victim. Even while passionately proclaiming her love, later stalking her heterosexual love interest, and lashing out at rejection, she appears as a grey character; she doesn't play by the rules of morality or etiquette. However, the ending is as gory and unpredictable as you come to expect from Menon.

Indu Menon

Initially published in 2002 in Malayalam, these stories haven't lost their importance in the past 19 years. Steeped in poetry and bordering on fantasy, Menon's stories deal with intersectional feminism with honesty. Translated by Nandakumar K, who has made sure the lyricism of Menon's language doesn't get lost in any pages. He has done a wonderful job in displaying the ugly and grotesque nature of each tale while keeping the magic of her wonderful prose alive.

The first story in The Creature, deals with the obvious casteism in our country. The battered hero who is fighting for his people against the powerful mining industry is described to be covered in furs like a bear or an ape by his assaulters. From the very moment, he appears in the story, he is dehumanised and likened to a creature. The Creature highlights the racism and casteism that are interwoven in our lives.

All her stories are deeply political. Be it The Muslim with Hindu Features or The Lament of the Eunuch the politics of them doesn't hide behind veiled words.

Insights on women's life and freedom

ARYA U R

WHO is society to decide on the dreams and aspirations of a married woman? Asks young writer Sreelekshmi L B through her debut novel, Bhadrayude Neethisaram. The Malayalam fiction penned by the techie-turned author based in Thiruvananthapuram was published by Booksthakam and was released by veteran novelist and short story writer Benyamin.

The fiction is the self-realisation of the central character, Bhadra, who in the story unwinds the deep-rooted patriarchy that was instilled within her since childhood, and realises how women are equal to men in society. Sreelekshmi says,"There are still certain rules enforced upon women on how to sit, how to laugh. Even our walks are scrutinised. In my younger days, I found these facts noteworthy. Also, the concerns of what society would think if a woman gets a divorce, or chooses to remarry have created pressure among the women."

MASQUERADING AS A SPORTS-LOVING NATION

URBAN BOURBON

Hriday Ranjan

Writer, comedian

THE Olympics are here, and we Indians have swiftly begun our roleplay as a sport-loving nation. OTT platforms feature sporting events in their banners. Our politicians have begun to speak about the importance of sports, brands have begun to splash images of Olympians across hoardings.

That's a rather sour note to begin a column, so here's the positive approach. Once every four years, the nation derives great joy from youngsters who've been working towards a dream their entire lives. Once every four years, a new star is born, and a whole generation is inspired. Once in four years, we watch sports we wouldn't have otherwise watched, and cheer our athletes.

As a viewer, watching the Olympics is a truly unique experience. I mostly have to Google the rules of the sport I'm watching. Some sports take weeks till the winner is crowned, while other athletic events are completed in under 10 seconds! Unlike in cricket, there is no toxic jingoism associated with the Olympics. And so I support nations for my own idiosyncratic reasons. For example, North Korea has my support, because I'm worried that Kim Jong-un might punish them for their loss. I do not support Germany because Hitler did not help Netaji Subash Bose during World War 2. At the same time, I support Japan because I am a fan of Akira Kurosawa and Sony cameras.

When Leander Paes won a bronze in the Atlanta 1996 Olympics, I was too young to realise what a big deal it was. Since then, India has continued to win medals in every Olympics. At the surface, I used to find it confounding. How could a nation of a billion people win only two medals at the Olympics? But over time, I have understood that the nations that win the most Olympic medals are usually the most developed nations. It took me a few years to understand that the nations that top the medals tally do not necessarily have the fastest athletes, the strongest humans - they have the best resources available for the sport to flourish.

For Indian sportspersons, the problems are manifold. Not only do they have to work around a crippling lack of resources in their sport, they also have to contend with a lack of respect and acceptance in our society. As a writer and standup comedian, I meet people from all walks of life - but I don't know a SINGLE professional sportsperson. None of my childhood friends chose sport as a profession. It just didn't figure in our list of options as children.

In a week's time, all our Olympians will return to India. And then begins the most hilarious part of every Olympics. Politicians will queue up to meet, hug, and congratulate the athletes like they were childhood buddies. Some politicians will have their images pasted right next to the Olympians, symbolising that it was all some sort of a partnership. Obese, old men dressed in white will subtly take credit for the slog and struggle of youngsters.

By next week, we will go back to cricket - that delightful sport we play with three other nations. But every four years, for one month - we will share stories and articles about medal winners. We will celebrate the achievements of sportspersons from the North East. For a month, we will be a nation that loves sports and sportspersons. It's a month-long roleplay, following which we will quietly go back to religious bashing and online trolling.

Beloved Rongomala to be translated

WESTLAND Publications has acquired celebrated Bangladeshi writer Shaheen Akhtar's third novel, Beloved Rongomala (Shokhi Rongomala). Translated by award-winning translator Shabnam Nadiya from Bengali to English, the book will be published under Westland's language imprint, Eka.

In Beloved Rongomala, Akhtar turns the assassination of the mistress of a small king, a footnote in the history of eighteenth century Bengal, into an exploration of class, caste, and gender. The story of Rongomala and Raj Chandra Chowdhury, mostly ignored by formal historians, lives on in local traditions, and Akhtar uses it to create a vivid and cinematic work which, in its aesthetics, is reminiscent of Satyajit Ray's movies like Devi or Jalsaghar or the period novels By the Tungabhadra by the great Bengali writer Saradindu Bandyopadhyay and The Chieftain's Daughter by Bankimchandra Chattopadhyay.

Beloved Rongomala is being represented by Jayapriya Vasudevan of Jacaranda Literary Agency, which is known to bring out books in four Indian languages, including Mandarin and Bahasa.

'MAINSTREAM CINEMA EMPOWERED ME'

Ahead of the release of his new film, the ZEE5 original, Dial 100, Manoj Bajpayee talks about his approach to acting, balancing mainstream and independent projects, and how OTT platforms have blurred the line between the two

RAM VENKAT SRIKAR

In a career sprawling 27 years, Manoj Bajpayee has essayed iconic characters—from his breakout performance as the violent yet humane gangster, Bhiku Matre in Ram Gopal Varma's Satya, to the murderous Sardar Khan from Gangs of Wasseypur, to the intelligence officer, Srikant Tiwari, who grapples with national security threats and familial conflicts in The Family Man. The actor has donned the khaki in a handful of films—including Shool, in which he played an aggressive, yet vulnerable inspector, and Satyamev Jayate, in which he played the gloriously dramatic Shivansh Rathod—and always succeeded in creating a humane impression. In fact, it was his performance as a cop—as the reticent, weary constable Ganpath Bhonsle in Devashish Makhija's wonderful film, Bhonsle—that fetched him his second National Award for acting.

Now, the actor once again plays a cop in his upcoming film, Dial 100. "I play characters, not the uniform they wear. It's never about the profession; it's always about the person I play. This is why every performance is different" he says. "My character from Dial 100 is a man from the middle class. He's a failed father and husband. When life gives him an opportunity to redeem himself, can he rise to the challenge? What is at stake? These are the questions that drive him. This thriller is quite topical in many ways."

The challenge, says Manoj, is to ensure that contemporary roles aren't seen as passing through the shadow of previously acclaimed performances, and so, eschewing monotony is his primary intent. "When people have seen so much of you, how do you stay different?" he asks, rhetorically. The hack to evoke uniqueness in every role is "to concentrate on the character and the story, completely shunning your past. It is how people will see something new from you. If my past distracts me, I'll end up doing something similar. It's better to get into every role as a newcomer, like each film were your first and last. That has worked out for me." The actor goes on to draw parallels between life and acting: "I'm experiencing life every day, and my response to life is as fresh as it used to be earlier. Why shouldn't my characters be as fresh?"

Manoj Bajpayee

Manoj debuted in 1994 with Shekar Kapoor's Bandit Queen, appearing in a minor character named Man Singh, which is incidentally the name of his character in the acclaimed 2019 film, Sonchiriya. After all these years, do scripts still manage to surprise him? "Definitely. The world is changing every day. The current generation of filmmakers grew up watching a different kind of cinema. They sit in contrast to our generation on every level—exposure, belief, conviction, vision, interpretation, and storytelling. Characters they write are all the more exciting and peculiar now," says Manoj, who finds motivation in innovative storytelling. "Novelty excites me every day. It is why I juggle between genres. I want to keep challenging myself; I want to be on my toes, and not get complacent. Many new writers and filmmakers are the same," says Manoj. Manoj has never restricted himself to a particular 'kind' of cinema either, having struck the balance between mainstream cinema and the 'parallel movement'. He follows up a testosterone-high actioner like Satyameva Jayate with an intimate, true-to-life drama like Gali Guleiyan. This has always been a conscious decision, he says. "I grew up watching the films of Mr. Amitabh Bachchan, Mr. Vinod Khanna, and Mr. Shatruguhan Sinha. I have always had great regard for Mr. Bachchan for how he stepped into mainstream cinema, with loads of respect. I don't like to judge scripts by genre either. In the pre-OTT era, mainstream cinema was the only medium to reach the masses and get recognised. I did it to empower myself, and I did it without any bias or condescension, and in turn, it has given me the strength to make independent films like Bhonsle and Gali Guleiyan," says Manoj. He adds that the existence of independent cinema is crucial to preserve the essence of the medium. "I feel that cinema is an art form; it's not just commerce. As an actor, I have to keep contributing to the medium. I act in independent films to feel complete and content. And I will keep doing it."

The emergence of streaming services, indubitably, has given indie films a new lease of life by "blurring the line between films of different scales," Manoj believes. "Independent films and middle-of-the-road films are doing exceptionally well on streaming platforms, whereas hardcore commercial films are struggling. It's because the experience of community-viewing is different from an individual watching a film in solitude. OTT has a different scatter altogether," shares the actor, whose The Family Man is one of the hottest streaming properties. "The biggest happiness The Family Man bestowed me is introducing me to a new section of the audience: children and teenagers. They are now exploring my previous works as well, which they couldn't watch earlier for reasons like adult themes, violence, and 'A' certification. The Family Man helped many discover my body of work. Take, for instance, a film like Aligarh, which I wanted every age group to see as I feel it's very educational. I feel extremely great that people are finally watching these films and appreciating them. I have a whole lot of respect for the new audience my work has generated."
